BUILDING DAMAGED

Second Fatal Accident In Dover, N. J., District In Fortnight.

(By Associated Press)

DOVER, N. J.—Two persons were killed and 11 slightly injured today in an explosion at the United States army's Picatinny arsenal.

It was the second fatal munitions blast in the Dover area within a fortnight, the explosion of a smokeless powder line at the Kenvil plant of the Hercules Powder company Sept. 12 having taken 50 lives.

Those killed at Picatinny were Elias Lawrence, 49, of Route 6, Rockaway, and John E. Goodwin, 26, of Towaco.

Col. A. S. Buyers, public relations officer at the arsenal, said the explosion occurred as employes were taking apart fuses of World war shells, "a dangerous job at best."

They were in a building about 30 by 50 feet in size and set apart for this operation. Each employe was protected by screens, which apparently prevented serious injury to any of the 11 reported hurt. The blast caused "some damage" in one end of the building, Buyers said.

A military board began an immediate investigation to determine the cause of the blast. Colonel Buyers said it apparently occurred when fulminate of mercury, used in the fuses, "let go."

Picatinny arsenal develops and manufacturers for the army all types of ammunition except that for small arms. On its 2,297 acres are more than 500 buildings of all sizes.

The explosion occurred about 7 a. m. (EST).

Nearly 5,000 civilians are employed at the arsenal, a peace-time peak as it works full capacity 24 hours a day to meet government defense orders.

At noon today the temperature had risen to 75, within three degrees of yesterday's high of 78. Saturday's high was 89. The lowest temperature recorded during the past 24 hours was 43, early today.

The average during the past 24 hours was 64.2, two degrees below normal.

Sorry was Farmer Saythinger when he reached into the hole for the rabbit, only to be bitten on the hand by a rattlesnake. Fortunately the bite was not fatal.

Kidnaper's Accomplices Sought

Child Returned Safely To Home of His Parents

Alien German Seaman Admits Abduction After Capture by Lumberman; Held In Secret Spot by F. B. I.

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif.—(AP)—Unharmed, baby Marc De Tristan, jr., was safe in the arms of his titled, rapturously happy family today while tight-lipped federal bureau of investigation men held his accused abductor, the alien German, Wilhelm Jakob Muhlenbroich, in some secret spot.

Joy reigned in Hillsborough, whose residents last night turned out by the thousands to roar a Hollywood welcome as Count Marc De Tristan proudly bore his son up a long path to the waiting mother, the child's curly head bobbing above the jubilant throng.

On a grimmer note, Chief of Police C. M. Hirschey said:

"I think that more than one person was involved in this kidnaping, and I expect several sensational revelations to be made when the trial opens."

And he added: "I don't want Muhlenbroich in my jail—there are too many trees close by."

The F. B. I. said Muhlenbroich, 40, had confessed kidnaping three-year-old Marc Friday, striking the child's nurse to the street. Yesterday his confused flight ended in mountainous El Dorado county as two alert hunters braved his revolver to disarm him and truss him.

Immigration Inspector E. C. Benson of Oakland said the dark-skinned abductor, a seaman, was arrested for illegal entry in 1925, but his records did not show whether he had been deported. The F. B. I. learned he had entered from Canada under the German quota ten years later.

Chief Hirschey said he had asked the F. B. I. when it finished with Muhlenbroich, to turn him over to San Francisco police for subsequent transfer to San Mateo county. State and county authorities agreed it was a matter for state, no federal, prosecution. The minimum penalty, upon conviction, would be life imprisonment under California's "little Lindbergh law."

Yesterday's hero, a hard-fisted, modest 220-pound sawmill owner named Cecil Wetzel, temporarily dropped from view after delivering the handsome boy and his sullen kidnaper to federal men at River Pine, a village of 50 souls.

The child had not a mark or bruise, the De Tristan family physician said, yet it was learned he had been perilously close to death in the wild ride of the stolen kidnap car.

Rounding a sharp curve in the mountain dark, the car plunged over a 40-foot embankment. Man and child were unhurt, and Muhlenbroich climbed up to the road and at gunpoint took the car of the next passerby, William Gianatasio of Sacramento.

Transferring the child and his stock of canned goods and ammu-

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—(INS)—President Roosevelt today signed a 61-page executive order prescribing volumes one and two of the rules and regulations governing administration of the selective service training act.

(By Associated Press)

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—President Roosevelt disclosed today that he had asked the 48 governors to organize the selective service system in their states and to recommend to him at once persons to be appointed state draft directors and members of local boards.

White House officials said, too, that Mr. Roosevelt probably would sign today an executive order putting into effect the first two volumes of rules and regulations for conscription. The orders and volumes were on the way here from Washington.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, was unable to say, however, whether the appointment of a national director of the draft would follow at once.

The request to the governors went out in identical, registered airmail letters which said:

"The procurement and training of our manpower under prop-

Automobile accidents in the Richland county area resulted in injuries to four persons Sunday and Monday, while the toll of accidental deaths rose to 14 in Ohio over the week-end, including 10 in automobile mishaps.

U-Boat Position Reported 400 Miles From Delaware.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A ship giving the New Zealand code designation "Zlog," at 11:10 a. m. EST today reported sighting a submarine at 38:44 north latitude, 63:56 west longitude, a position approximately 400 miles east of the coast of Delaware.

Performers Begin To Arrive For Gala Fourth Street Show

Mansfield's Fall festival on Fourth street will officially get under way at 7 p. m. Wednesday with a concert by the Senior high band and short talks by city, WPA and state highway officials from a platform at Fourth and Main streets.

Most of the concessions and free act performers had arrived in the city today, and Fourth street will not begin to take on carnival dress until shortly after midnight Tuesday when concession tents and trapeze equipment will be erected.

George Satterlee, chairman of the committee in charge of the festival, said Mayor William J. Locke, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, J. L. Kelly, district WPA manager, and a representative of the state highway department will speak at the opening ceremonies Wednesday night.

All of Fourth street from Diamond to Mulberry will be turned into a carnival ground from Wednesday afternoon through Saturday night as the city celebrates the opening of the new street. The street was closed most of the summer for re-paving.

Satterlee said stores and other business places on Fourth street will be open until 9 p. m. nightly during the festival. Fourth Street Merchants are sponsoring the event.

Any profit from the festival will be turned over to the Senior high school band to help buy new uniforms.

JAILED IN ROW ON PAVING JOB

Fired WPA Employe Accused of Striking Supervisor With Thrown Rock.

This is another story about the Fourth street paving project.

It all started about 8:30 a. m. today when the superintendent on the job discharged a WPA worker. He claimed the man "wasn't working."

The incident took place at North Mulberry street while Samuel P. Peffer, the project supervisor, was discussing progress of the work with Carl Stander, president of the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company, contractor on the job.

Peffer said he turned his head just in time to see a large rock being hurled by the worker he had just discharged. He threw up his right hand. The rock, he asserts, struck him in the head and injured his finger.

Police were called and took into custody a man who gave the name of Isaac Lykings, R. D. 1, Shiloh. He was held in jail on a charge of assault and battery filed by Peffer. The case will be heard tomorrow morning by Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch.

NYA TO BUILD NEW TRAINING CENTER HERE

First of Kind in State To Be Located Near Charles Mill Dam, Officials Say.

200-300 TO BE TRAINED

Construction to Start Soon, Provide Jobs for 125 In Three Counties.

Construction of a resident training center in Richland county, the first of its type to be established in the state, was announced today by S. Burns Weston, state NYA director, and Robert D. Royer, Columbus, area supervisor for the National Youth administration.

Erection of the camp, which will ultimately house between 200 and 300 youths between the ages of 18 and 25, will be started next Tuesday. It is expected that the first contingent of youths will be housed in the new quarters by Dec. 1.

The resident center, similar in some respects to the permanent NYA camp established at New Philadelphia several years ago, will be located in the Charles Mill lake area, L. C. Roesner, sub-area supervisor said.

The site will be located on the west side of the lake just south of U. S. route 30.

Buildings, which will be constructed with pre-fabricated materials similar to those used in CCC camp construction, will include several dormitories, a kitchen and mess hall.

The permanent quarters are the first of a series of similar centers to be located throughout the state for housing youths who are to be given vocational, but non-military training in industrial arts in connection with the natioal defese program, NYA officials said.

Roesner explained that preconstruction jobs would be immediately opened to approximately 120 youths between the ages of 18 and 25 in Richland, Ashland and Crawford counties.

He added that the government agency was short of boys in this area and that applications would be taken by Robert Young, personnel director, at NYA headquarters in the Mohican building.

Company officials said, however, that they had not been informed of the contract and declined to comment on the nature of the equipment or its use.

The contract was included in orders totaling $37,296,145 for trucks, trailers, telephones, and medical equipment for the army.

Gigantic New Bomber Among Raiding Craft

Four-Engined Plane Chased Back Across Channel Along With Escort; Huge Size of Wing-Span Dwarfed Big Messerschmitts

BULLETIN

VICHY, France—(UP)—British bombing planes flying through stormy skies were reported today to have heavily attacked German long-range guns firing from the French coast against the British coastal town of Dover.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Nazi raiders, paced by a "monster" bomber, roared over England's coasts again today and some reached London, sending its millions underground twice after dawn and spattering the western part of the capital with bombs.

Vigorous anti-aircraft fire quickly cleared the skies, however, and most of the invaders were believed turned back by British fighter squadrons before they reached the capital.

Authoritative reports said five raiders had been shot down in air battles with British fighter planes this morning.

Four separate times waves of German planes surged across the British coast as Nazi forces again intensified the battle of Britain after a lull in daylight raids.

British fighter patrols, waiting for them, were reported by British sources to have broken up the German squadrons and sent them back in disorder across the channel.

One Nazi plane was described as a new, giantic, four-engined bomber which crossed the Kent coast.

A police officer told Exchange Telegraph (British news agency), that he spotted the plane through binoculars and "I was astonished by the huge size of its wing span."

"Accompanying Messerschmitts were dots by comparison," he said.

Attention was attracted to the giant raider by "smoke trails from twin engine ports," a correspondent of Exchange Telegraph said.

"The monster raider was followed by three formations each of nine bombers," he reported, all flying "at terrific height."

Coastal anti-aircraft batteries opened fire but their shells did not reach the planes. The formation, however, was scattered by British Spitfires and Hurricanes and when last seen, it was said, the great bomber was speeding toward the channel with Spitfires in pursuit.

It was announced distribution of earplugs to all persons in the metropolitan area will begin immediately—for the two-fold purpose of protecting ear drums from shattering bomb blasts and of helping sleep by shutting out the din of battle.

The air fighting increased in tempo during the night—the 16th in succession in which the Germans have bombed London—as the British launched new counter blows along the "invasion coast" across the channel.

Londoners who viewed the air raid damage revealed by dawn in almost every section of the city heard with satisfaction the reports of the RAF's own blows at the Nazi coastal bases and into

TRAGEDY: 293 Lives Lost In Torpedoing Of Refugee Ship

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The sinking of a British refugee ship with a toll of 293 persons, 83 of them children enroute to Canada, stunned Britons today and brought headlines of "Murder" in the London press.

The government waited until today to announce the tragedy of almost a week ago to give welfare workers opportunity to notify the children's parents in London, Liverpool and Middlesex after exhausted survivors were brought to a northern port of England.

The ship, her name undisclosed, was torpedoed 600 miles west of England and sank in a stormy sea within 20 minutes after she was attacked at 10 p. m. last Tuesday, the announcement said.

Of 406 men, women and children aboard, only 113 were brought back alive by a warship which reached the scene at dawn. The stories of heroism and horror they told indicated many perished in the tremendous explosion which ripped the ship. Scores more were swept from wave-tossed lifeboats, or died of injuries and exposure in the night of cold and sleet.

Whole boatloads sank while huddled children piped the boisterous "roll out the barrel."

One boy comforted a dying nurse, long before rescue, with the words: "I can see boats, nurse. It won't be long now—."

The captain went down with his ship, shouting to the children to "take care of yourselves."

The government said the children, from five to 15 years old, were the first lost in child refugee removals that have taken 3,000 others to safety. Another evacuee

CLASH: Jap Troops Attack French Posts In Indo-China

BULLETIN

TOKYO—(UP)—The imperial Japanese army headquarters reported today that French forces which had resisted in Indo-China had surrendered and had been disarmed by the Japanese command.

HANOI—(UP)—Fighting between Japanese and French forces on the Indo-China frontier halted today after a clash in which both sides suffered casualties.

Maj. Gen. Issaku Nishihara sent a liaison officer to the scene of the clash at Dong Dang on the Nanning-Hanoi railroad where Japanese Canton army troops crossed over into Indo-China.

The officer was instructed to attempt to arrange a settlement.

It was reported that the Japanese made attacks on three outposts, at Dong Dang, Bin-Hai and Chin-Ma.

The French government issued an official communique reporting that the Canton forces had attacked the French after receiving formal notification that the agreement between the French and Japanese for Japanese military and naval concessions in Indo-China had been signed.

French authorities perforce had submitted to a Japanese ultimatum, expiring at midnight last night, for drastic military concessions which would give Japan a foothold in Indo-China, dominating the Far Eastern steamship lane and strategically important as regards Hong-Kong, Singapore and the Philippines, and would aid them in their long and costly war against China.

Under an agreement reached a

Claims State Owes County $32,405 for Institution Care

AUDITOR ENDS RECORD CHECK, LISTS FINDINGS

Says Officials Have Grounds For Collection, Citing Method of Admittance.

The state has illegally collected $32,405 from Richland county during the past 51 years for keeping seven mental patients in state hospitals, Carl Dellenbaugh, a Columbus accountant, who has just completed an audit of the hospital accounts, told county officials today.

Dellenbaugh said the county had "legal grounds for collecting the money," and Auditor Norman L. Wolfe indicated immediate steps will be taken to recover it.

The audit showed that the county has been paying for the past 51 years for keeping a woman patient in the state hospital for the feeble-minded at Columbus, although she was not legally admitted to the institution. Six others were in hospitals for shorter periods.

Dellenbaugh, who made the audit under a contract with the county commissioners, said all seven of the patients mentioned in the audit were committed to institutions without probate court authority. The patients, five of whom are still in the hospitals, are in institutions in Columbus and Orient.

Dellenbaugh pointed out to the commissioners that a state law requires that patients can be sent to state institutions only on an order from county probate courts.

The county has paid $4,812 for keeping the one woman patient at Columbus, while two other cases date back to 1892 and another to 1898.

Dellenbaugh completed an audit about two years ago, showing that the state had overcharged the county approximately $37,000 for keeping county patients in hospitals. The state later credited the county with that amount on debts the county owed the state.

Under his contract with the commissioners, Dellenbaugh will receive $100 for his audit. He would have received nothing if he failed to show that the county had less than $1,000 coming from the state.

The Painesville trip will be to attend the installation of the new Painesville Gyro chapter, of which Charles St. Clair, former Mansfield Gyro and now a resident of Painesville has been elected president. International officials will also attend the installation, which will be preceded by a golf tournament.

The Columbus trip will be to attend the District No. 1 convention, a highlight of which will be the Ohio State-Minnesota football game on Oct. 19, the second day of the convention.

RITES FOR INFANT

Funeral services for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harrod, R. D. 5, Mansfield, who died shortly after birth Saturday night at General hospital, were held at 5 p. m. today at the Wappner funeral home. Burial was made in Caesarea cemetery. Surviving besides the parents are a sister, Delores and her grandparents.

Usually when a golfer shoots a hole-in-one you hear or read about it immediately—but one Mansfielder recently scored one and he never said a word about it. He is Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch and he tallied his ace at Westbrook Country club. Playing in a foursome, Kalbfleisch, using a No. 8 iron, collected the ace on the No. 8 hole. The hole, 127 yards long, is the only one at Westbrook on which a member has turned the trick. Bobby Moorhead did it in a match with Dr. Art Sprecker. Kalbfleisch's drive hit the edge of the green, bounced twice and rolled in.

A lot of Richland county young men of draft age prefer the navy to the army, so they're beating Uncle Sam to the draw by enlisting for naval service before conscription starts. Sheriff E. P. Long or one of his deputies have been kept busy since the draft bill passed checking fingerprints and the records of applicants to find if the enrollees have ever been in jail. The government won't accept men with criminal records.

Chief Deputy Frank E. Robinson, candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket, is missing no bets in his campaign for the office. Veteran newspapermen of the old Mansfield Shield, published here a number of years ago, were cheered recently by the news that a reunion of the old gang will be held sometime in October at Malabar, Louis Bromfield's farm. Pollock and Bromfield, who are organizing the party, said the reunion would include printers and everyone who had anything to do with the paper.

FACES CHARGE

Man Accused of Contributing to Delinquency of Minor.

Arrested last Friday as a child molester suspect, John Snouffer, 44, South Boulevards, today was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 10-year-old girl. The charge was filed by Prosecutor G. W. Marriott, who said Snouffer would be given a hearing this afternoon before Judge C. J. Anderson in probate court.

Snouffer was taken into custody by deputy sheriffs after the child's grandparents, with whom she lives, told authorities he had taken liberties with the girl in his home. The child lives only a short distance from Snouffer.

Marriott said there was no evidence that the girl had been assaulted. Snouffer, who is married and has a son, has been held in the county jail since officers arrested him at his home three days ago.

CONGRESS CUT FACED BY OHIO

Population Growth Fails to Reach Mark Needed For 24 Representatives.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio stands to lose one of its 24 representatives unless congress revises its plan for reapportioning house members, 1940 census figures showed today.

With the nation's population now at 131,409,881, representatives will be apportioned, if the present system is retained, one for each 300,000 population.

Ohio needed a population of about 7,000,000 to retain its present 24 members and the increase was only from 6,646,697 in 1930 to 6,889,623 this year—the smallest 10-year gain in 130 years.

The state's population increase was only 3.7 per cent compared with the national average of 6.3. It remained the fourth most populous state, although California was only 15,935 behind.

Ohio got an increase in congressmen from 22 to 24 after the 1930 census and in Washington the representatives indicated they would lead a fight to prevent any reduction.

Any revision plan would have to be acceptable to all states, particularly those like California which stand to gain more seats. However, no change will be made this year and it is unlikely any new seating plan would go into effect before 1944.

A cessation of urban expansion caused Ohio's failure to keep pace with the national population increase.

LEGION OPENS CONVENTION ON DOMINANT AMERICANISM NOTE

BOSTON—(INS)—With the shadow of war over most of the world, National Commander Raymond J. Kelly today gavelled into annual convention session the American Legion. The dominant note of the conclave was unequivocal, unqualified Americanism.

A patriotic address by Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York, speaking as bishop of the Catholics in the army and navy, highlighted memorial and religious services. "It would be worse than folly," the archbishop said, if the United States did not at once build up a defense strong enough to "discourage any possible effort that might be made against us."

Solemnly, he warned:

"We can no longer afford to be moles who cannot see, or ostriches who will not see, for some solemn agreements are no longer sacred, and vices have become virtues and truth a synonym for falsehood. We Americans want peace and we shall prepare for a peace, but not for a peace whose dilemmatic definition is slavery or death."

Sessions today and tonight featured such speakerse as Federal national defense Commissioner William S. Knudsen, G-man J. Edgar Hoover; President H. W. Prentis, jr., of the National Association of Manufacturers, and National President Mrs. William H. Corwith of the American Legion auxiliary.

The Legion's mammoth parade will be held tomorrow through streets lined with historic buildings, all draped in red, white and blue bunting. Two million spectators are expected to watch the procession.

M'GREGOR TALKS

Congressman on Air Tuesday to Oppose Adjournment.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor of the 17th Ohio district will make a radio address over the NBC red network at 10:15 p. m. Tuesday in his campaign against the proposed adjournment of congress while the country is in a state of emergency under proclamation of the president.

McGregor contends that congress can recess for a few days at a time much more cheaply than it can adjourn and then re-assemble in an extraordinary session.

"I believe enough emergency still exists for congress to stay on the job at least until the situation in Europe changes," McGregor asserted.

MEMBERS EAGER FOR CAMPAIGN WORK AT HOME

Senate Dispute Over Civil Service Bill Looms as Chief Obstacle.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON— Congress enters today what may be the final week of a momentous, nine-month session.

Senators and representatives, eager to get home to begin electoin campaigning, hoped to adjourn by Saturday night.

Biggest obstacle to those plans is a senate dispute over the house-approved Logan-Walter bill to subject rulings by administrative agencies to court review. It has been pending on the senate's calendar for months, and its supporters said they would insist that it be voted on this week.

"I believe we will be able to adjourn by Saturday, barring unforeseen difficulties," said Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley.

A test on the Logan-Walter bill, which was approved by the house last April, may come in the senate today when Sen. James M. Mead, D., N. Y., renews a motion to begin consideration of a bill blanketing more than 300,000 workers under civil service.

The last big defense appropriation bill of the year—a $1,800,000,000 cash and contract authorization measure for the army, navy and other branches of the government—is nearly ready for house consideration. It was approved Saturday by an appropriations sub-committee and will be reported by the full committee early this week. Chairman Clifton A. Woodrum said he planned to call it up in the house Thursday.

Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee hoped to arrange a conference today of senate and house conferees on the excess-profits tax bill.

Friends of Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone have been saddened by the news that the stork's visit—to which they had looked forward so much—has been cancelled. . . . Claims State Owes County $32,405 for Institution Care

AUDITOR ENDS RECORD CHECK, LISTS FINDINGS

Says Officials Have Grounds For Collection, Citing Method of Admittance.

The state has illegally collected $32,405 from Richland county during the past 51 years for keeping seven mental patients in state hospitals, Carl Dellenbaugh, a Columbus accountant, who has just completed an audit of the hospital accounts, told county officials today.

Dellenbaugh said the county had "legal grounds for collecting the money," and Auditor Norman L. Wolfe indicated immediate steps will be taken to recover it.

The audit showed that the county has been paying for the past 51 years for keeping a woman patient in the state hospital for the feeble-minded at Columbus, although she was not legally admitted to the institution. Six others were in hospitals for shorter periods.

Dellenbaugh, who made the audit under a contract with the county commissioners, said all seven of the patients mentioned in the audit were committed to institutions without probate court authority. The patients, five of whom are still in the hospitals, are in institutions in Columbus and Orient.

Dellenbaugh pointed out to the commissioners that a state law requires that patients can be sent to state institutions only on an order from county probate courts.

The county has paid $4,812 for keeping the one woman patient at Columbus, while two other cases date back to 1892 and another to 1898.

Dellenbaugh completed an audit about two years ago, showing that the state had overcharged the county approximately $37,000 for keeping county patients in hospitals. The state later credited the county with that amount on debts the county owed the state.

Under his contract with the commissioners, Dellenbaugh will receive $100 for his audit. He would have received nothing if he failed to show that the county had less than $1,000 coming from the state.

Three Events On Gyro Club Program For Next Month

A corn roast Wednesday evening, a trip to Painesville on Saturday and another one to Columbus next month have been scheduled by members of the Mansfield Gyro club, Secretary Forest Cleland announced today.

The corn roast Wednesday will be the club's last outdoor meeting of the season. It will be held at the James Pugh cabin, south of Mansfield. The committee in charge includes Clarence Luft, Miller Guiher, John Lehman and Harold Dysart.

ST. CLAIR

The Painesville trip will be to attend the installation of the new Painesville Gyro chapter, of which Charles St. Clair, former Mansfield Gyro and now a resident of Painesville has been elected president. International officials will also attend the installation, which will be preceded by a golf tournament.

The Columbus trip will be to attend the District No. 1 convention, a highlight of which will be the Ohio State-Minnesota football game on Oct. 19, the second day of the convention.

Robert B. Scheetz, 11-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Scheetz of 417 Woodland avenue, died Sunday at the home after a brief illness. He was born in Mansfield Oct. 16, 1939.

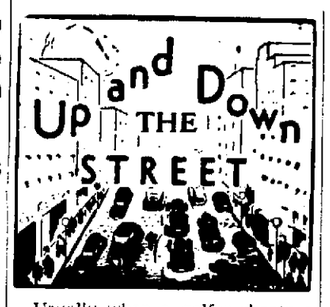
Surviving are his parents; two brothers, John P. and Louis V.; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Scheetz of Mansfield and Mr. and Mrs. Don Kemmer of Mt. Vernon and his great grandparents, Mr. Paul Zitka of Mansfield and Mr. and Mrs. William Benson of Cardington.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where private funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

RITES FOR INFANT

Funeral services for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harrod, R. Surviving besides the parents are a sister, Delores and her grandparents.

Congress Adjournment By Saturday Likely



Usually when a golfer shoots a hole-in-one you hear or read about it immediately—but one Mansfielder recently scored one and he never said a word about it. He is Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch and he tallied his ace at Westbrook Country club. Playing in a foursome, Kalbfleisch, using a No. 8 iron, collected the ace on the No. 8 hole. The hole, 127 yards long, is the only one at Westbrook on which a member has turned the trick. Bobby Moorhead did it in a match with Dr. Art Sprecker. Kalbfleisch's drive hit the edge of the green, bounced twice and rolled in.

A lot of Richland county young men of draft age prefer the navy to the army, so they're beating Uncle Sam to the draw by enlisting for naval service before conscription starts. Sheriff E. P. Long or one of his deputies have been kept busy since the draft bill passed checking fingerprints and the records of applicants to find if the enrollees have ever been in jail. The government won't accept men with criminal records.

Chief Deputy Frank E. Robinson, candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket, is missing no bets in his campaign for the office. While he's been passing out booklet matches to the men voters he has now come through with a little favor for the women folks. It's thimbles he's distributing to them—and, of course, they carry the usual advertising—"Robinson for Sheriff."

Veteran newspapermen of the old Mansfield Shield, published here a number of years ago, were cheered recently by the news that a reunion of the old gang will be held sometime in October at Malahar, Louis Bromfield's farm. Among those who will be present at the reunion are Bromfield, who started his career on the Shield, Henry Brunner, former owner; Wellington Leonard, editor, and Earl Pollock, city editor. Pollock and Bromfield, who are organizing the party, said the reunion would include printers and everyone who had anything to do with the paper.

FACES CHARGE

Man Accused of Contributing to Delinquency of Minor.

Arrested last Friday as a child molester suspect, John Snouffer, 44, South Boulevards, today was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 10-year-old girl. The charge was filed by Prosecutor G. W. Marriott, who said Snouffer would be given a hearing this afternoon before Judge C. J. Anderson in probate court.

Snouffer was taken into custody by deputy sheriffs after the child's grandparents, with whom she lives, told authorities he had taken liberties with the girl in his home. The child lives only a short distance from Snouffer.

Marriott said there was no evidence that the girl had been assaulted. Snouffer, who is married and has a son, has been held in the county jail since officers arrested him at his home three days ago.

CONGRESS CUT FACED BY OHIO

Population Growth Fails to Reach Mark Needed For 24 Representatives.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio stands to lose one of its 24 representatives unless congress revises its plan for reapportioning house members. 1940 census figures showed today.

With the nation's population now at 131,409,881, representatives will be apportioned, if the present system is retained, one for each 300,000 population.

Ohio needed a population of about 7,000,000 to retain its present 24 members and the increase was only from 6,646,697 in 1930 to 6,889,623 this year—the smallest 10-year gain in 130 years.

The state's population increase was only 3.7 per cent compared with the national average of 6.3. It remained the fourth most populous state, although California was only 15,935 behind.

Ohio got an increase in congressmen from 22 to 24 after the 1930 census and in Washington the representatives indicated they would lead a fight to prevent any reduction.

Any revision plan would have to be acceptable to all states, particularly those like California which stand to gain more seats. However, no change will be made this year and it is unlikely any new seating plan would go into effect before 1944.

A cessation of urban expansion caused Ohio's failure to keep pace with the national population increase.

LEGION OPENS CONVENTION ON DOMINANT AMERICANISM NOTE

BOSTON—(INS)—With the shadow of war over most of the world, National Commander Raymond J. Kelly today gavelled into annual convention session the American Legion. The dominant note of the conclave was unequivocal, unqualified Americanism.

A patriotic address by Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York, speaking as bishop of the Catholics in the army and navy, highlighted memorial and religious services. "It would be worse than folly," the archbishop said, if the United States did not at once build up a defense strong enough to "discourage any possible effort that might be made against us."

Solemnly, he warned:

"We can no longer afford to be moles who cannot see, or ostriches who will not see, for some solemn agreements are no longer sacred, and vices have become virtues and truth a synonym for falsehood. We Americans want peace and we shall prepare for a peace, but not for a peace whose dilemmatic definition is slavery or death."

Sessions today and tonight featured such speakerse as Federal national defense Commissioner William S. Knudsen, G-man J. Edgar Hoover; President H. W. Prentis, jr., of the National Association of Manufacturers, and National President Mrs. William H. Corwith of the American Legion auxiliary.

The Legion's mammoth parade will be held tomorrow through streets lined with historic buildings, all draped in red, white and blue bunting. Two million spectators are expected to watch the procession.

M'GREGOR TALKS

Congressman on Air Tuesday to Oppose Adjournment.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor of the 17th Ohio district will make a radio address over the NBC red network at 10:15 p. m. Tuesday in his campaign against the proposed adjournment of congress while the country is in a state of emergency under proclamation of the president.

McGregor contends that congress can recess for a few days at a time much more cheaply than it can adjourn and then re-assemble in an extraordinary session.

"I believe enough emergency still exists for congress to stay on the job at least until the situation in Europe changes," McGregor asserted.

MEMBERS EAGER FOR CAMPAIGN WORK AT HOME

Senate Dispute Over Civil Service Bill Looms as Chief Obstacle.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON— Congress enters today what may be the final week of a momentous, nine-month session.

Senators and representatives, eager to get home to begin election campaigning, hoped to adjourn by Saturday night.

Biggest obstacle to those plans is a senate dispute over the house-approved Logan-Walter bill to subject rulings by administrative agencies to court review. It has been pending on the senate's calendar for months, and its supporters said they would insist that it be voted on this week.

"I believe we will be able to adjourn by Saturday, barring unforeseen difficulties," said Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley.

A test on the Logan-Walter bill, which was approved by the house last April, may come in the senate today when Sen. James M. Mead, D., N. Y., renews a motion to begin consideration of a bill blanketing more than 300,000 workers under civil service.

The last big defense appropriation bill of the year—a $1,800,000,000 cash and contract authorization measure for the army, navy and other branches of the government—is nearly ready for house consideration. It was approved Saturday by an appropriations sub-committee and will be reported by the full committee early this week. Chairman Clifton A. Woodrum said he planned to call it up in the house Thursday.

Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee hoped to arrange a conference today of senate and house conferees on the excess-profits tax bill.

Homers Give Indians 10-5 Victory Over Detroit Club

Vitt Maps Mound Assignments for Last Five Games

Tribe Pounds Out Five Circuit Blows as Feller Clicks In Final Road Tilt.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—This day of grace in the Indians' pennant battle of nerves found no abatement of tension among fans.

Cleveland jumped back into the scrap with Bob Feller's 10 to 5 victory over Detroit yesterday—narrowing the Tigers' lead to one game—and while fans were in a speculative whirl over the outcome of the remaining five games, Manager Oscar Vitt mapped his mound assignments.

The Tribe hopes—and the fans have it figured that way—to deadlock with Detroit again before their final three-game series by sweeping the two contests with St. Louis here tomorrow and Wednesday.

One Tiger loss in the two-game series with Chicago would knot it all up again, providing Cleveland takes its series with the Browns—a jinx club that has broken even with the Indians in their 20 games.

Vitt plans to hold the Tigers in the final meeting by throwing Feller against them in the first game, on Friday. Johnny Allen will work on the mound Saturday and Mel Harder gets the wind-up assignment.

"Harder definitely will pitch the last game of the Detroit series," said the Tribe pilot. "Harder will be in there even though we enter the game tied and a triumph means the pennant."

Mel also will see service against the Browns, either tomorrow or Wednesday. Allen will start in the other game with St. Louis, which will use Elden Auker and Vernon Kennedy. Both Cleveland and Detroit have an open date Thursday.

The Tribe took a tip from the Tigers yesterday to beat them at their own game, clubbing six Detroit hurlers for 12 hits—five of them home runs.

Feller, tired and underweight fom his heavy duties in the stretch, wasn't at his best in posting his 27th victory but he was far from "washed up," as the Tigers had described him after driving him from the Mound last Friday.

The Iowa farm boy struck out six, walked five, allowed eight hits and helped win his own game with one of the circuit smashes—the second of his baseball career.

Three Cleveland runs in the second inning and four in the third staked Feller to a lead that kept him out of trouble when he faltered in the latter frames.

Snyder Stresses Pass Defense for Elyria Tilt Friday

Tyger Coach Will Also Seek to Correct Blocking Weakness This Week.

By CHARLES MARTIN, News-Journal Sports Editor

"WE MUST develop a strong pass defense this week."

That is what Coach Paul Snyder told his Mansfield high Tygers as they returned to the practice field today in preparation for the invasion of the touted Elyria high gridders at Stadium field Friday night.

Snyder also indicated that blocking will be stressed during the week as the club nears one of its toughest tests of the year.

The Tygers are not taking the Elyria game lightly for they know the club possesses a potent running and passing attack. Last week the Elyria combine turned back Sandusky high 13 to 7.

Elyria, with a veteran line and three hard-running backs, is a power in this district and Snyder is hoping his charges will be in top shape for the tussle.

Considerable gloom hung over the Tyger camp as the squad wondered if Martin Henke, varsity fullback, will be able to start Friday. Henke injured his knee in the Cambridge game last week and may not see action against Elyria.

That the Tygers need a strong pass defense was evident in the Cambridge affray. The Brownies reeled off long gains against Mansfield with its aerial bombardment. The passes paved the way for the losers' only score. In all, Cambridge completed nine passes.

Whether Henke will be available for duty Friday will be known late this afternoon after the club physician examines him, Snyder stated.

"Our blocking was ragged at times against Cambridge and I'll spend considerable time this week correcting that weakness," Snyder said. "We also need more drive in the backfield," the Tyger mentor continued.

CHICAGO—(AP)—This is really a blue Monday in proud little Green Bay and it hasn't anything to do with wash-day.

The adoring supporters of the mighty Packers saw the National pro football champions humiliated Sunday by the pulverizing Chicago Bears, 41 to 10, in a brilliantly-coordinated air and land attack.

It was the Packers' worst setback in the long and intense rivalry between the two teams and marked their first loss of the young season. The champions were joined in the defeat column by the New York Giants, eastern division titlists, who bowed to the Washington Redskins, their own bitterest enemy, 21 to 7, before 34,712 in Washington.

Sammy Baugh led the Redskins' attack, throwing one touchdown pass and setting up another score with a pass. Dick Todd accounted for the third tally with a 76-yard jaunt with a punt.

Dutch Clark's highly-rated Cleveland Rams opened their campaign with an impressive 21 to 13 victory over Philadelphia. Johnny Drake scored all of Cleveland's touchdowns in the first two periods. Don Looney, Eagle end, contributed both opposing scores on passes from Davey O'Brien and Foster Watkins.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, after tying their first two games, hit the victory column with a 10-7 decision over the Detroit Lions. The Steelers trailed 3-7 in the fourth period when Louis Tomastti scored from the three-yard line for the winning touchdown, capping a long drive.

Brooklyn and the Chicago Cardinals were idle.

When the individual prizes are awarded the winners in The News-Journal Class A golf league at the circuit's annual banquet at 6 p. m. Tuesday at Possum Run, a number of players will receive gifts.

Pete Linster of the Richland Printers, will take the top prize for low score on nine holes by virtue of his five-under-par 31. Joe Mayer walks off with the season individual low with a 35, while Rollie Rachel and Gene Zediker share the runner-up spot by leading the No. 2 men with a 37.

* * *

Team captains, players and sponsors will attend the annual dinner at which the championship trophy will be presented the Long Bar team. The Printers, who finished second this season, won the title in 1939.

Automotive Supplies Drop 10-0 Decision To McKeesport Club

Olympics Push Over Touchdown In First Half; Add Field Goal For Triumph.

AS FAR as the Mansfield Automotive Supply semi-pro team is concerned the last minute in the half is an important one.

Coach Earl McMullen and his Supplies invaded McKeesport, Pa., Sunday and dropped a 10 to 0 decision to the McKeesport Olympics and all the scoring was done in the last minute of the opening and final halves.

After holding the touted Olympics scoreless for nearly two periods, the Supplies saw the winners take the lead with a touchdown drive. Bill Karcis, former Carnegie Tech star, smashed over from the three-yard line. Spisak added the extra point from placement.

Then in the closing minute of the tilt, which was witnessed by 3,000 spectators, the Mansfield club opened a drive from its own 18. Four first downs carried the pigskin to the Olympic eight-yard line.

* * *

At this point the Supplies fumbled and Spisak picked up the ball and raced to the Mansfield eight where he was tackled by Al Schwaner. Spisak lateraled to Koepka who was stopped on the four.

The Mansfield forward wall stiffened and three plays found the winners on the one-yard line. Spisak dropped back to the 17-yard marker and split the uprights for the three points.

Mansfield will resume practice sessions today at Tappan field for the next contest against the Akron Awnings at League park in Akron Sunday. Mentor McMullen is still seeking additional playing talent and requests anyone wishing a tryout to report at the field at 6 p. m. today or any day this week.

The first Catholic Mass in Brazil was celebrated May 1, 1500.

Take Day Off

Pennant Contenders Rest For Final Title Battle; Tigers In Lead.

By BILL WHITE
(AP Sports Writer)

LIKE the old-time movie serials that used to end each week just after the heroine had fallen into the crocodile pond, the American league pennant race stops abruptly today.

After almost everybody had given up on the Yankees ever being able to make it five pennants in a row, and then had decided the hard-hitting Detroit Tigers were too tough, Cleveland yesterday smashed out a 10-5 win in the third game of their series at Detroit and the Yankees beat Boston, 6-3, to make a three-way scramble again.

And now, with everybody on edge, they all take the day off.

Resuming play Tuesday, the Tigers have a two-games series with the always troublesome Chicago White Sox, and the Indians meet the Browns in a pair. All of which means the pennant chase probably will not be decided until that three-game series starting Friday between the Tigers and the Indians at Cleveland.

After losing the first two games of the "croocial" series, the Indian victory yesterday—Bobby Feller's 27th of the year—left the pennant picture looking like this:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.	GB	TP
Detroit	87	62	.584		5
Cleveland	86	63	.577	1	5

Wemcos Cop Softball Series From Cabbies

MARKING up a 5 to 4 win in the second game of a doubleheader yesterday afternoon at the Fairground park with the Safety Cabs, the Wemco softball club, champions of the Y. M. C. A. Independent league, took the three-game benefit series between the two clubs, 2 and 1.

After losing the first contest to the Cabbies, 6 to 5, the Wemcos came back to take the nightcap. About 200 persons saw the games, played as a benefit for Gene Yarman, Safety Cab third baseman, who has been ill.

Yesterday's split gives the Safety Cabs, who closed their season, a record of 23 wins against nine loses, and the Wemcos a season record of 20 wins and two defeats.

Trailing 3 to 2 in the fifth inning of the second game, the Wemcos came back to score three runs in their half of the sixth to take the lead. The Cabbies added another run in the seventh.

The Wemcos collected eight hits in this game off Freddie Carver and Dale McKinley, while Geiger held the Cabbies to five safeties, two of them home runs by Wolfe and Carver.

McKinley held the Wemcos to seven hits in the opening game, to chalk up his second win over that club this season. His first win over the Wemcos was played during the league season.

* * *

One of the hits was a home run by Ross, Wemco third baseman. The Cabbies collected eight safeties off two Wemco hurlers, Carver and Geiger. Rudolph and Judy led the Safety attack, each getting two hits.

MARINES TAKE HONORS IN RIFLE MATCHES

CAMP PERRY—(AP)—The nation's top-flight shipbreakers have deserted this Ohio National Guard encampment with the U. S. Marines carrying away the majority of the honors in the national rifle matches.

The Devil Dogs annexed the 10-man Wimbledon service rifle honors in the grand finale Saturday, breaking the infantry's two-year reign. They beat the doughboys, 2883 to 2861.

Mayer Busts Par To Annex Golf Match From Zupic

JOE MAYER today holds his second straight golf victory over John Zupic, Akron District champion.

Busting par on both nines in an 18-hole exhibition match, the youthful Mansfield star scored a one-up triumph at Possum Run yesterday.

Both shotmakers finished with 70's, but Mayer pounded out a pair of 35's while Zupic was hitting 33 on the first nine and 37 on the second. Zupic's famous long drives kept him in the battle which was played before a gallery estimated by club officials at 100.

Pete Zeides and Nick Linster rounded out a foursome, with Zeides collecting a 74 and Linster a 76. Mayer recently scored a win over Zupic in the Ohio Public Links tournament at Akron.

Crestline Grid Forces Out After Their 11th Victory

By CHARLES MARTIN.

FIGHTING to remain in the Ohio scholastic undefeated and untied list, the Crestline high football machine began making plans today to go after its 11th straight triumph against Marion St. Mary's under the lights at Crestline Friday night.

By virtue of their impressive 21 to 0 triumph over the Galion high Orangemen last week, the Crestline players will enter the tussle as favorites.

Coach Merle Hutson has a veteran line working in front of his inexperienced backs and is praying nothing will happen to that forward wall. That same line functioned before a backfield which included Bob Frye and Phil Ganni, the "touchdown" twins last season as the team marked up eight victories.

Another game in this vicinity Friday afternoon will see the Bellville high club, fresh from an impressive 39 to 0 win over Galion last week, out to score its third straight against a dangerous Fredericktown high outfit at Bellville.

Employing double reverses, the Bluejays showed considerable power in crushing the Granville gridders. Coach C. L. Lindsay is making his debut at Bellville this season. He replaces Boyd Hodge, who went to Westerville high.

The Madison Rams will travel to Urichsville to clash with a powerful Dennison high team.

In the only game in the North Central Ohio conference this week, Shelby invades Ashland. The other NCO clubs play non-conference foes. Galion plays at Norwalk, Coshocton performs at Newark, Bucyrus entertains Upper Sandusky and Marion treks to Piqua.

* * *

Butler high's Bulldogs, after their second consecutive win, goes to Mt. Gilead to face the Mt. Gilead Indians. In another tilt, Loudonville meets New London under the arcs at Loudonville Friday night.

Mansfield Merchants Register Two Wins

THE Mansfield Merchants, state girls' softball champions, added two more games to their season's win column yesterday afternoon by defeating a Cuyahoga Falls girls' team in a doubleheader by scores of 3 and 1 and 7 and 1.

Both games were featured by near perfect pitching by the Mansfield pitchers. Frances Clark worked on the mound for the Merchants in the first game holding Cuyahoga Falls hitless, and Everett gave up only one single in the nightcap.

The Merchants collected six safeties off Jacobs in the first contest, and 11 in the nightcap off the hurling of Efair.

Bessemer, Marchant's catcher, collected three for three in the second contest, and Donna Schuster a homerun.

Jocha led the Merchants' attack in the first game getting two for three.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

PITTSBURGH — (U.P.) — This is about a Conn man who really is a confidence man.

It's about Billy Conn, the collar-ad boy who holds the World's light-heavyweight championship, and who lives for the day when he can pit his 175 pounds against the 200 pounds of Joe Louis, match his darting left with the sledge-hammer right of the Bomber who is brown.

I talked with Billy today, in his home on shady Fifth avenue here. We didn't talk loudly, because in the next room his mother lay gravely ill.

Billy sat in a deep leather chair. Just above his head was a picture showing him and Louis, both in street clothers, sparring.

"I look at that picture a lot," Billy said, "and I never have been able to get scared. He's got two fists. I've got two fists. He wants to win and I want to win. He's game and I'm game. I just keep wanting to bring that picture to life in the ring."

"But you don't weigh enough; you don't hit hard enough to fight a heavyweight champion," I said.

"You're just like everybody else," Billy said. "What do you think I'll weigh this time next year? Don't you think I'm going to grow a bit? This time next June I'll come in a 185, and that's enough weight for anybody. It was enough for Dempsey."

"Yeah," I said, "but Dempsey could hit. He could knock you dead with a punch. It's alright to be little if you have the punch."

"What makes you think I can't punch?" Conn asked.

"Well," I said, "I've seen you in a lot of fights and you never did look like a killer to me."

* * *

"That's right, I didn't. But I won, didn't I? I showed enough to win. Up until now I haven't had to hit. My speed and my boxing was enough. But don't let anybody ever tell you I can't hit if I have to."

Conn figures, and perhaps rightly, that Louis never has faced an honest-to-heaven tough guy, who figures to get off the floor and keep punching.

In the other games, Sid Hudson and Ken Chase turned in two fine pitching performances to hand the Washington Senators a pair of victories over the Athletics, 5-4 and 5-2, and old Ted Lyons pitched the White Sox to a 10-0 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

In the National league, Jim Turner pitched a two hitter to give the champion Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory over the Pirates (the 39th the Reds have won this season by one run) in the first game, but Johnny Vander Meer's wildness cost them the second game, 8-1.

The Brooklyn Dodgers scored a twin win over the Phillies as Freddie Fitzsimmons earned his 16th, 10-2, and Curt Davis captured his eighth, 5-2.

The Boston Bees and the New York Giants split their doubleheader, the Beantowners nipping Carl Hubbell, 4-3, in the first, but bowing before Bob Carpenter, a Giant rookie from Knoxville, 7-3.

CAROL DREAMS OF RETURN TO BALKAN THRONE

Reinstated Once Before as King of Rumanians In Coup D'Etat.

(Editor's Note: Ruling with a firm hand, Carol resisted many efforts to exile Magda Lupescu from Rumania until developments in the European war forced him from the throne. Then left the country with her. This is the final of four articles on the career of Carol.)

By ROGER D. GREENE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Cast into exile with a murderous gun-fire salute, ex-King Carol II of Rumania and his red-haired companion, Magda Lupescu, still may dream of history repeating itself—in a triumphant return to power.

Knowing the volatile temper of his Balkan countrymen, he well may wait a few years and then attempt another coup d'etat such as he achieved in June, 1930.

That was a theatrical heart-breaker for "Bibi."

While Carol flew in a private plane to Bucharest, Magda overflowed with tears.

Feigning ignorance of Carol's plot, she sobbed that Carol left her while she kept dinner waiting for him, and that their love was ended forever.

To stress the break-up of the romance, she even wrote a letter to government officials saying that Carol had severed the knot of her charms and had made a settlement of $80,000 and a French chateau on her

That looked good, and as a clincher, she reportedly took an overdose of poison a few months later in despair over the shattered romance.

That looked better, as viewed by the Rumanians. Carol, they felt, had regained his senses . . . and the nation's anxiety over this quasi-clandestine affair subsided.

Within a few weks, Magda returned.

A freckled, hypnotic beauty, with flashing blue eyes and flaming hair, she soon became recognized as the "shadow queen" of Rumania, consulting with Carol on political and army appointments, lucrative government contracts, and the shaping of his foreign policy.

She swiftly became the richest, best-dressed, most bejeweled woman in Rumania—a "modern Madame Pompadour," the Rumanians angrily called her.

As early as 1935, Carol was warned publicly by Dr. Juliu Maniu, leader of the powerful peasant party, that he must banish his red-headed charmer or the peasants, 85 per cent of the populace, would rise in revolt.

Carol swiftly proclaimed martial law and forbade even mention of Magda's name.

But already the storm was gathering thunderheads, spurred by a manifesto signed by General Alexander Averescu, Rumania's war hero, exhorting:

"Into the fire with the Jewish wolf, Lupescu! The rope for this vampire who stands between the crown and country! We must uproot the weeds of the palace Camarilla which stifles the monarchy. We must finish this red-haired witch who exercises such an occult influence over the king."

Magda laughed. She had Carol order precious diamonds from Amsterdam and swing-music phonograph records shipped from New York.

She remained cool and firm in the face of 120,000 hostile peasants who marched through the capital streets demanding her banishment.

Gray appeared now in her hair and she inclined to stoutness, but envious wives of Bucharest officialdom freely admitted she was still fascinating, a brilliantly witty conversationalist, a ravishing woman aven at 42. And her hold on King Carol was undisputable.

But cessions of Rumanian soil this summer to Soviet Russia and Hungary brought on the climax.

Popular indignation was boiling. Carol had ceded too much and the fiery Rumanians rioted and shouted for his abdication—and for the ousting of the woman who had wielded her behind-the-scenes influence over him.

Carol gave up. And at the end, while shots riddled the train that sped them into exile, Magda Lupescu hid under a black mantilla the tell-tale tresses that first attracted Carol nearly 20 years ago.

Intersectional Tilts On Tap

Five Important Games Set On Saturday's Bill.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (AP) — If you haven't felt the tang in the air, seen the leaves turning red, or read the news that summer officially ended last night, take a look at this week's football schedule, and you'll see that autumn actually is here.

* * *

There were a good many games over the past week-end, with a dozen or so "major" teams rolling up big scores. But next Friday and Saturday, there are six scheduled contests that are right at the top of the "big game" division, and as many more important sectional and

Friday night's headliner is U. C. L. A against Southern Methodist at Los Angeles. Saturday's biggest games are intersectional—Boston College-Tulane at New Orleans, Pittsburgh-Ohio State at Columbus, Washington-Minnesota at Minneapolis, Michigan-California at Berkeley and Colorado-Texas at Austin.

The east can't offer much more than war-ups unless it's Navy vs. William and Mary, but farther west the program includes Purdue-Butler, Missouri-St. Louis, and Texas Christian-Centenary.

SMALL GAINS TACKED ON IN MARKET TODAY

Many Issues Lack Support as Some Attract Modest Bids; Commodities Mixed.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Fractional advances were tacked on to scattered stock market leaders today, but many lacked buying support.

Attracting modest bids were U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Chrysler, Boeing, American Telephone, N. Y. Central, Montgomery Ward and Union Carbide.

Carrier loans again were in front of a moderately higher bond department. Commodities were mixed. Securities at London were quiet and steady.

Market cheer was found in forecasts from Detroit that September automobile production would be the largest for any month since 1929, with schedules indicating a new output record in October.

Studied was the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that virtually all hard metal products, with the exception of tin plate, were feeling the stimulus of increasing demand.

Old B. & O. Depot To Be Completely Gone By Thursday

Mansfield's ancient B. & O. depot was nearing total disappearance today as A. R. Bird and his force of workers continued the process of demolition, which is to be completed by Thursday, under the terms of his contract.

The new brick passenger depot, just to the west of the old structure, is now in use, with a new platform also completed.

The ground occupied by the old station is to be immediately filled and leveled for use as parking space.

Across Mulberry street from the new station the Painter Confection company's building is being given a complete repainting and other improvements in the appearance of the vicinity property are in prospect, notably the razing of the old Exchange hotel frame structure just across the Erie tracks from the B. & O. station, which has been unoccupied for a number of years and which is in much dilapidated condition.

BRITISH ROUT 4 FLEETS OF NAZI RAIDERS

Belgium and northern France.

In addition, the air ministry reported, an "important target in Germany" was attacked.

(A dispatch from Berlin said the first air raid alarm in a week was sounded there early today in Berlin and lasted two hours and 22 minutes.)

Other British communiques told of day and night raids since last Saturday in which shipping and barges were reported smashed, oil stores ignited and huge fires touched off at Rotterdam and Flushing, in the Netherlands, in Antwerp and Ostend, Belgium, and in the French ports of Dunkerque, Boulogne and Calais.

Watchers who keep a close eye on the weather at the English channel, important to any move for invasion, reported clearing skies have made visibility fair over the narrow strait of Dover. The sea was calm with only a light southwes. wind.

A communique acknowledged there had been "a number of casualties," including some deaths last night and that London again was the principal target, athough bombs fell in several coast towns as well as inland.

Report Great Fire In London

BERLIN —(AP)— "Tremendous fires," so great they were visible from the French coast, were spread in the center of London by waves of Nazi night raiders, informed German sources declared today.

Piccadilly Circus and the Regent park district in the heart of the British capital, as well as commercial docks along the Thames river were hit, they said, in rolling raids throughout last night by 150 Nazi battle planes.

In a daylight continuation of the assault, described by the high command as new "full strength" air raids, they said 17 British planes had been shot down so far today in "severe air fights" over southern England. Four German planes have not returned, they acknowledged.

The high command also reported new blows against British shipping as Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop sped home to tell Adolf Hitler of his Rome discussions of Axis hopes for carving up the empire of a conquered Britain.

Nazi air raiders, the high command communique said, hit port facilities, docks and "other war important targets" in night attacks on London and also bombed other military objectives in southern England.

At sea, it said one commerce-stalking submarine had sunk four British merchant ships totaling 29,000 tons and a speedboat had sunk a 3,000-ton merchantman and "incapacitated" a patrol vessel off the English coast.

As evidence of the extent and success of German air attacks on Britain, an authorized source said 50,600,000 pounds of bombs had been dropped by the German air force since July 10 on British targets and mentioned these statistics: 6,000 factories damaged, 1,400 of them in the London area; $600,000,000 damage to food and other storehouses; 20 per cent of Britain's gas and electric plants destroyed or severely damaged; 200 attacks on British ports in which 17,000,000 pounds of bombs have been dropped; 700 raids on airports; hundreds of miles of railroad track damaged.

Informed sources in Rome indicated Von Ribbentrop, speeding back in an armored train protected by anti-aircraft guns, was carrying the Fascist leader's full assent to German plans for the future.

In the latest phase of the war, meanwhile, British warplanes roared over Berlin early today, driving residents of the German capital into shelters for the first time in a week.

Berliners, routed from their beds, spent a chilly two hours and 22 minutes in shelters, but there were no reports bombs had been dropped in the city, and German authorities said strengthened defenses, including night picket ships, stopped most of the raiders in the vicinity of Potsdam.

Berlin political commentators spoke vaguely of a "diplomatic as well as military offensive which may be expected as a consequence of Von Ribbentrop's extensive discussions with Mussolini in Rome.

293 KILLED ON REFUGEE SHIP

London Press Shouts 'Murder' Placing Full Blame Upon Adolf Hitler.

ship was reported torpedoed last August, but all 320 children aboard were saved.

The government announcement did not identify the submarine in last Tuesday's war episode. Geoffrey Shakespeare, chairman of the children's overseas reception board, called the tragedy "another example of the barbarous methods associated with Nazi Germany."

The London press laid the blame on the Nazis. Under an editorial heading of "Murder," the Laborite Daily Herald declared "Hitler, himself, directly, fully and personally bears the guilt. Let us write that in our hearts and never forget it."

The survivors, 13 children, 18 women and 82 men—the latter including members of the crew that had numbered 251—were exhausted and drenched when taken aboard the British warship, but in good spirits by the time they returned to England last Friday.

Col. James Baldwin-Webb, member of parliament and general manager of Baldwin's steel works at Birmingham, was injured badly by the torpedo blast and went down with the ship after refusing a place in a lifeboat until all women and children were safe. He was going to Canada on a Red Cross mission.

Germans Deny They Sank Ship

BERLIN —(UNS)— The German government today disclaimed responsibility for the torpedoing of a passenger refugee ship with the loss of 293 lives, accusing Great Britain of staging a "tear-jerker plot" to arouse American sympathy.

An official spokesman charged that the British government may have loaded evacuees aboard an armed merchantman which was liable to attack under the German-proclaimed blockade.

"If this was done," the spokesman said, "it was with the deliberate intention of precipitating such an incident to serve propaganda purposes in gullible America."

German naval circles declared that no Nazi submarine or warship has attacked or been permitted to attack any passenger vessel recognized as such either in or out of the war zone. No such incident has yet been reported by German naval craft anywhere, it was said.

Only armed merchantmen will be attacked in the war zone without warning, it was said.

With regard to British assertions the ship was torpedoed 600 miles at sea, no German U-boat is operating at any such distance, it was said.

"Therefore," a spokesman said, "the British either deliberately sank the ship for the sake of American sympathy or it ran into a mine which probably was of British origin."

PLANE FOUND

Hope Abandoned for General and Two Army Fliers.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(AP)—An army wrecking crew started through the swamplands of southeastern Georgia today to the wreckage of an observation plane which was believed to have carried Brig. Gen. F. W. Honeycutt and two fliers to their deaths.

Capt. T. S. Stocks of Fort Bragg, Ga., head of a searching party which reached the demolished plane yesterday, said the plane "apparently crashed at full speed" and that he was certain all three men were dead.

The ship had been missing since Friday on a flight from Fort Bragg to Jacksonville. Aboard were Honeycutt, commander of Fort Bragg; Capt. George F. Keane, the pilot, and Corp. Robert J. Schantz.

The two bodies were found buried in the mud of a small island six miles east of Waycross, Ga.

Alien Held As Kidnaper

Wilhelm Jakob Muhlenbroich, above, 40-year-old German alien, is being grilled by FBI agents, after his capture by three lumberjacks who caught him while he was fleeing through the wild Sierra mountain country near Placerville, Cal., with little Marc de Tristan, jr., for whose return a $100,000 ransom had been demanded. Federal agents were seeking to determine if the kidnaping had any connection with abduction threats received recently by other wealthy French families in the United States.

JAPS ATTACK FRENCH POSTS

Fighting Occurs at Three Points in Indo-China After Invasion.

few hours before the ultimatum was to have expired, Japanese troops began landing at Haiphong, the port of Hanoi, yesterday afternoon.

At the same time troops of the aggressive Japanese army of south China, moving from the Canton area, crossed the frontier on the Nanning-Hanoi railroad.

Just on this side of the border, they came on a French blockhouse at Dong Dang railroad station, and according to dispatches received here, they attacked at once.

The small French-Indo Chinese force replied so warmly that the Japanese were held off for hours.

Suspending their attack only at midnight, the Japanese were expected to reform their lines and attack the block house in overwhelming force today.

French officials charged that the Japanese had attacked the block house in direct violation of the agreement they had wrested from Indo-China.

Hull Hits At Japanese Move

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary Hull declared today that the status quo in Indo-China was being upset through duress and once again he voiced the disapproval of the United States.

He read a formal statement at his press conference on the entrance of Japanese military forces into the French far eastern colony.

"Events are transpiring so rapidly in the Indo-Chinese situation that it impossible to get a clear picture of the minute to minute developments," Hull said.

"It seems obvious, however, that the status quo is being upset and that this is being achieved under duress.

"The position of the United States in disapproval and in deprecation of such procedures had repeatedly been stated."

Hull would not discuss what measures might be taken by the government as a result of this step in Japan's southward drive.

Snite, in prepared word of the birth at the suburban River Forest home of his father, wealthy loan company executive, whose he was confined to the huge "boiler," the respirator on wheels in which he has spent most of his time during the last four years.

Fred hoped to go to the hospital today to visit his wife, the former Teresa Larkin of Dayton, O., and his daughter.

fered the stroke before the accident or after.

The accident in which the Kanes were injured happened one mile north of Mansfield Sunday on Route 545, after their automobile blew a tire and turned over, highway patrolmen stated.

Three other accidents were investigated by the Highway Patrol Saturday and Sunday, but no injuries were suffered by occupants in any of the mishaps, patrolmen said.

At the intersection of Route 30-S and Route 61 yesterday an automobile driven by Fay Dubes, 30, Kentland, collided with a vehicle driven by Harry C. Spenser, 55, Canton. Both cars were slightly damaged, Patrolmen reported.

Also damaged were cars driven by Clara Gerster, 36, Galion, and John Kessler, 17, Marion, who collided yesterday afternoon one mile east of Galion on Route 30-S.

Automobiles driven by Pauline Horton, 29, New Riegel, and Jean Leavenworth, 31, Galion, crashed last night on Route 30-S one mile West of Ontario. Both cars were slightly damaged.

Police and highway patrolmen also arrested 14 persons for traffic violations over the week-end.

In municipal court this morning C. C. Rupert, 47, 115 Sycamore street, was fined $50 and costs and had his license revoked for a year for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Children's Theater Revives 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' Friday

The great classic of the American theater will be revived here Friday night when the Children's Theater presents "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at Park Avenue Baptist church.

Harold McCuen, director of the theater, secured a script which was popular in American theaters during the latter part of the 19th century and which eliminates the necessity of having Little Eva the angel child, ascend to heaven before the eyes of the audience.

The river scene with Eliza escaping over the ice, is also eliminated because of scenic limitations, but the story will be just as it was when it helped stir nation to war.

Katherine Beatty will have the role of the Angel Child while the important roles of Uncle Tom and Topsy, "who just grew," will be entrusted to John Bishop and Anna Marie Fischer respectively.

Eliza, the handsome young slave girl will be portrayed by Jean Hugo, with Robert Beatty playing George Harris, her husband. John Colby will play both George Shelby senior and junior. George Ridenour, too, will essay dual characters, as Tom Haley and Simon Legree.

Other of the well remembered characters are taken by the following: Marks, the lawyer, Bob Oliver; Miss Ophelia, Bettie Gibson; Cassie, Sara Ann Hodgson; Gumpington Cute, George Porterfield; Marie St. Clair, Helen Pecht; Mr. St. Clair (little Eva's father), Bill Gandert; and Sambo and Quimbo, Larry Woerth and Warren Alverson.

There will be three acts and six scenes. The last one shows the death of Uncle Tom and the vision of the Angel Child.

The old play will not be burlesqued, but will be presented with all the reverence and sincerity with which it was originally done. It was revived on the legitimate stage as late as 1934 when the distinguished actor, Otis Skinner was seen as Uncle Tom.

The Children's Theater will do only three plays this season. The next one will be a Christmas play, given Jan. 3 and the third one will be presented in the spring.

During the year the board of the theater will hold regular meetings at the homes of members to study make-up, costumes, scenery and stage technique. The October meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Robert Beatty, 142 Blymyer avenue on Oct. 2. Mrs. Jack Berno will talk on "Straight Make-up."

nition to the new vehicle, Muhlenbroich roared on — until a few hours later he lost his way.

Then he met Wetzer, taking a log truck to his Omo ranch mill.

"How in the hell do I get out of here?" he asked.

Wetzel, the San Francisco Chronicle said in a copyright story, had already noted the fair-haired child, clad only in a sunsuit, in the car.

The lumberman, a former Washington State college football player and wrestler, gave directions, then followed Muhlenbroich until he stopped for further instruction. Wetzel stepped to the road, moved in close and gritted, "How about that baby?"

The suspected kidnaper drew a revolver and Wetzel dived for him. They rolled briefly in a welter of flying fists, dust and weapons.

Ellis Wood, a lumberjack, arrived in time to help Wetzel take a second revolver from Muhlenbroich—who had a holster under each arm — and bind him with stout cord.

In Wetzel's car the woodsmen drove to River Pine with the wide-eyed child and sullen captive. Wetzel telephoned authorities, while Marc, jr. — whose last food had been pineapple juice the night before — was fed and warmed at Frank Breidenbach's general store. For three hours Muhlenbroich lay trussed on the floor of the barber shop next door, under the muzzles of rifles in the hands of watchful River Pine folk, while Marc played with the Breidenbach's spaniel.

Skill, vision, perseverance...this veteran flyer has them all—in extra measure. Mildness, coolness, flavor—the qualities of a fine cigarette—he gets them all in his smoking, with an extra measure of each. He smokes Camels. "No matter how much I smoke," he says, "I always get a fresh thrill out of a slow-burning Camel. That extra flavor is always welcome."

He turned to Camels for Extra Mildness

His smoking log would read: "I wanted more mildness in my cigarette. I changed to Camels and got extra mildness with a grand flavor."

Russia Reported Seeking Favors From United States

SOVIET ASKING RIGHT TO BUY DEFENSE ITEMS

Hull Said to Oppose Request, Other Cabinet Members See Benefits.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Russian government has asked the United States for a long list of valuable economic and political favors as a basis for the establishment of closer and more cordial relations between Moscow and Washington, International News Service learned today from an official source.

Closely - guarded conversations have been in progress intermittently for two months between Constantine Oumansky, the Communist state's envoy here, and state department officials, including Secretary Cordell Hull and Undersecretary Sumner Welles, it was learned.

Meanwhile, according to a source intimately acquainted with the conversations, a split has developed in the cabinet as to whether Washington should grant the favors that Stalin's envoy is asking.

Hull was represented as feeling that Oumansky's requests were unreasonable—some of them even presumptuous. Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes and Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau were described as believing, however, that the United States could afford to give the Russians substantial benefits in return for an invigorated Soviet-American trade and possible political cooperation in the Far East.

According to the informant, Oumansky has asked, among others, these American boons:

1. Sale to the Soviet Union, despite the virtual embargo on items vital to the national defense program, of $25,000,000 worth of machine tools.

2. Sale or lease of a fleet of oil tankers.

3. The sending of American technicians to Soviet Russia to supervise the construction of plants for the manufacture of high-octane aviation gasoline.

4. Preferential treatment by immigration officials and the department of justice of Soviet citizens in the United States.

The Soviet Union recently signed a trade agreement with America pledging itself to buy United States goods worth $50,000,000 during the next year. A "loophole" proviso said that goods in this amount would be purchased if American export restrictions permitted the Soviet Union to satisfy its needs here.

Those conversant with the Oumansky-state department talks now have gathered the impression that Russia is interested almost exclusively in products necessary to its industrial expansion and national defense programs—in other words, the very supplies which America now is attempting to conserve for its own defense.

Under the "moral embargo" imposed at the time of Russia's attack on little Finland, Moscow is prohibited from buying aviation grade gasoline or the machinery for its manufacture in the United States.

Washington officials were both irked and amused by Russia's request for preferential treatment of its citizens.

They pointed out that the Communist state, along with Japan and Germany, have afforded the United States less cooperation in protecting the rights of its own nationals abroad than any other nation in the world.

PLANE CRASH

Start Investigation of Fatal Accident Near Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (U.P.) — Inspectors for the civil aeronautics authority and local police continued investigation of scattered wreckage of an army pursuit plane which crashed near Bloomfield, 37 miles south of here, killing the pilot.

Army authorities would not comment immediately on the accident but the pilot was believed to be Captain Louis E. Massie. Reports from Memphis, Tenn., said a plane piloted by Massie cleared there bound for Wright Field, Dayton, O., where it was overdue.

Witnesses who saw the plane plunge to earth last evening said the motor seemed to go "dead" suddenly and it dived at a high rate of speed. Nose of the plane was almost buried in the ground. Metal from the wreckage was scattered widely in the vicinity.

er administration, fairly and without fear or favor, is undoubtedly the most important single factor in our entire program of national defense. I ask your every help."

The letters were dispatched after Mr. Roosevelt had conferred last night with Robert P. Patterson, assistant secretary of war, and Frederick Osborn, chairman of a special committee of six which the president named Saturday to help coordinate plans for the draft.

The president enclosed in each of the 48 letters a copy of his proclamation setting Oct. 16, as the day for men in the 21 to 35 age bracket to register. He suggested that the state executives issue similar proclamations. From the registrants 400,000 men will be picked promptly for a year's military training.

"I request you," Mr. Roosevelt wrote each governor, "to carry out the registration within your state and to call upon your local election officials and other patriotic citizens, to serve on the registration boards and in all other ways to assist in making the registration full and complete."

Following the registration, local boards will take charge of the classification and selection of men, and the president said it was "all-important" that the boards be composed of people in whom the community "has the greatest confidence."

Expressing confidence that many thousands of patriotic citizens would offer their services, the chief executive made it plain they would receive no compensation, except for clerical help.

Historically and nationally, Mr. Roosevelt wrote, it is entirely fitting that responsibility for conscription activities in the states rest on the governors. He added:

"A favorable and intelligent public opinion, based on a just and impartial administration of this most important defense measure, can be more effective in securing proper and effective administration of the law than the penalties written into the statute."

SWASTIKA FLIES AT DOVER HIGH

Improvised Nazi Flag Tied To School Pole.

DOVER, O. —(U.P.)— Local authorities watched for "fifth columnists" today after an improvised Nazi flag was flown from a flag pole in front of Dover's new $600,000 high school.

The Swastika was discovered waving atop the 85 foot pole by early churchgoers yesterday. The person or persons who hoisted the emblem had to climb the pole inasmuch as the pole's rope and pulley appeared unused.

Police Chief Frank Javens doubted that pranksters were responsible for the act.

MOTHER SHOWS RELIEF UPON RETURN OF KIDNAPED CHILD

By HELEN CIVELLI

(UP Staff Correspondent)

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif.—The Countess Jane De Tristan ran down the brick path from her home last night, radiant, her eyes shining, her lips firm but smiling, to clasp her only child, 3-year-old Marc, jr., in her arms.

The child, rescued from a kidnaper by two woodsmen in the Sierra Nevada foothills, was arriving home in a car with his father, Count Marc De Tristan.

There was a constant surging and clatter from the more than 1,000 persons gathered on the lawn.

As the countess ran from the house, those of us on the terrace heard the cry:

"Here he comes."

The car swept up to the entrance and cheers arose from the crowd.

The countess seized the baby in her arms and closed her eyes.

Then the count took the boy and dashed into the house, his wife at his side.

Little Marc looked well but bewildered by the flashing bulbs and the glare of news reel camera flares.

He wore a blue sweater over his red and white sunsuit and someone had encased his chubby legs in a pair of men's red wool socks.

Once inside, he was taken upstairs to his nurse, and then to the doctor who had been summoned. He was given a glass of water which he sipped slowly, and then a little soup. He wasn't very hungry.

That, we learned, was because he had been given a good deal of fruit juice by his captor. His diet obviously had been planned ahead of time and consisted largely of canned fruits and vegetables which the kidnaper had stored in his car.

Then the countess held a press conference in the library.

Tiny, and obviously near the breaking point, she sat on a sofa.

A cigaret trembled in her hand and several times she closed her eyes while she sought to control her voice.

"I was so afraid," she said, "that it wasn't really Marc when they told us he had been found. I couldn't believe it until I saw him.

"But now I'm so happy—I can't tell you how happy, and so grateful. The papers have been wonderful—wonderful."

KING BOLSTERS BRITISH SPIRIT

Declares Britain Will Win With Aid of 'Friends In the Americas.'

(By United Press)

LONDON — King George VI, speaking from an underground air raid shelter, tonight told his people that with the aid of "our friends in the Americas," Great Britain will emerge victorious from the war as a symbol and citadel of freedom.

The king spoke by radio from the cellar air raid shelter of bomb-pocked Buckingham palace. An air raid warning was in effect as he spoke and German raiding planes were reported approaching the city.

Speaking in a calm, strong voice he told his people that "there will always be an England" and called upon them to fight firmly the battle against the enemy.

He warned of grim times to come and said that, with British cities now in the front lines of battle, production of weapons for the fighting forces must be kept up "regardless of danger."

War is at the "very doors" of Britain, he declared, and the home forces must keep front fighters well supplied with weapons.

"There is much to encourage us," he added. "Our friends in the Americas have shown this in many ways."

He condemned the "wickedness against which we fight" which he said was well illustrated by the torpedoing of the evacuee ship on which British children were lost last week.

WILLKIE URGES USE OF POWER FOR INDUSTRY

Says Federal Dam Projects Should Be Completed For Northwest.

(By Associated Press)

PORTLAND, Ore—Wendell L. Willkie urged today that electric power from the Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams be used for industrial development of the northwest and for domestic service at the lowest possible rates.

The Republican presidential nominee, who formerly headed the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, made public in advance this excerpt of a speech prepared for a rally in the Civic auditorium:

The United States government has invested some 270 million dollars in the development of Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams. It seems inconceivable, therefore, that anyone would suggest that these projects should not be completed.

"In connection with this great navigation and reclamation project, large quantities of power are developed. This power obviously should be disposed of for the benefit of the public. . .

"Whatever the method of distribution this great reservoir of cheap power should be used for the industrial development of the great northwest and to provide domestic and rural users of electricity their requirements at the lowest possible rates."

Willkie arrived here last night after greeting trainside crowds through the home state of his running mate, Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon.

In a statement issued on the train, Willkie noted that his western trip through 11 states had been through territory "which ordinarily is predominantly Democratic." Saying that he had been "amazed and delighted by the crowds" which heard him speak, he added:

"It is only when depression, defeatism and demagogic catchphrases close the minds of men and lead them into the clutches of false philosophies that Democracy fails and the doctrines of Totalitarianism take over. The people of the United States, whom I have seen on this trip, have convinced me that they do not intend to let that happen here."

He said one band was made up of 30 sympathizers of Almazan, who claims he won the recent presidential election which the government declares was won by Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho.

HOW YOU CAN GET A CASH LOAN QUICKLY AND SIMPLY

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $4.46 a month—See table for other loan plans—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Quick, friendly service.

YOU can get a personal loan —without red tape or delay —if you can repay in small monthly installments. All you do to apply for a loan at Household is to acquaint us with your problem. You need no bankable security—no endorsers or guarantors.

You may repay your loan on any of the schedules shown in the table below. Thus you may choose the payment plan which best fits your own needs and income.

Payments to fit your purse

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.46 each will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $4.46 a month for thirty months will also repay a $100 loan.

You will note that the sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.26 each, or a total of only $105.04, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1940.

It begins to look as if they mean it when they sing, "Britons never shall be slaves."

The pedestrian's right-of-way has again been upheld in court—which should be considerable consolation to the survivors.

Kentucky's Mammoth Cave is said to have attracted larger crowds in August than ever before—possibly to get it located in event of need for an air raid shelter.

Visitor's Impression of Mansfield

PEOPLE living in Mansfield get such a close-up view of the city that they sometimes overlook good points and are inclined to be hypercritical of bad ones.

A stranger coming into town for an unbiased look around sees Mansfield to much better advantage than home folks, and is also able to make comparisons with other cities in the same population range.

As, for instance, Phil S. Hanna, editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, who was here last week to speak at a district bankers' conference and a meeting of two service clubs. Some of his impressions of Mansfield were given in an article in Saturday's issue of the Journal of Commerce.

Here are a few excerpts which give an idea of Mr. Hanna's favorable opinion of Mansfield:

"It is one of those fine places where the itinerant reaction is, 'I wish I lived here' . . . It is an industrial center in a fine agricultural community . . . Business is so good here that one of the city's newer industries is making steel products in a tent alongside its main plant . . . Industrially the story is one of growth despite depressions . . . There are about 9,500 industrial employes in the city who average $1,425 a year income, including women and youths. This is among the highest ranking cities in the country . . . Why is this such a seemingly ideal community? One answer, we suspect, is found in the spirit of the leading business men, who, by tradition, take an active part in Mansfield's Chamber of Commerce . . . with very few exceptions business heads are permanent residents of Mansfield . . . there is also a trek of the kind of labor that seeks steady work at good pay and peaceful conditions . . . It is a kind of decentralization that is good for America and which brain-trust legislation seems to be unable to prevent."

Specific reference is also made in the article to a number of Mansfield's industries, which Mr. Hanna visited during his stay here, and also to exceptional agricultural production in this vicinity.

If an outsider's impression is effective in increasing Mansfielders' appreciation of the advantages of their own city and surrounding community, Mr. Hanna's visit here can be regarded as well worthwhile.

Future Depends On War's Outcome

ONE of the most interesting attractions at the New York world's fair has been the "Futurama," which presents a wonderful preview of what human life and environment may be in America hereafter. It seems to be not so much a dream as an imaginative projection of present life and progress, the blossoming of civilized forces already at work and moving toward fruition with growing speed.

There has been much question whether this exhibit should be demolished when the fair closes on Oct. 27. The decision is to destroy it. It would be difficult to remove and set up again anywhere.

It seems a pity to abandon so fine a fillip to the imagination. But perhaps the fair officials are right. And there is a factor here worth thinking about. Who knows now what course civilization will take after the present war? If one side wins, it may be sterile dictatorship and fixed forms of life. If the other side wins, creative imagination may blossom anew. Then humanity, released from fear and perhaps from poverty, may gloriously express its aspirations and dreams in ways now unforeseen.

Never More Than 'Two Beers'

BECAUSE such a thing might sometime happen in even so small a city as Mansfield, it appears timely to briefly recite the circumstances in connection with a recent occurrence in Cleveland.

A cab was standing in front of Central police station, with the driver alongside. A car approached from the east, driven by a man who had had "two beers." Out of control, the car plowed into the cab, ran over the curb and pinned the cab driver underneath.

Walking around to the front of his car and seeing the cab driver pinned underneath, the motorist who had had "two beers" exclaimed: "Get up, you ——: you're not hurt."

Taken to the hospital, it was found that the cab driver had sustained a compound fracture of the right leg, a fractured pelvis and possible internal injuries.

A check-up showed a previous "driving while intoxicated" conviction of the motorist who had had "two beers," also a special intoxication charge following an accident last April.

Despite beer's legal acceptance into the classification of non-intoxicating drinks it appears that "two beers" may become a quite serious hindrance to safe driving, judged by the frequency with which "two beers" are the admitted limit of persons involved in traffic crashes.

In any event, it is just as well to know about these things in Mansfield, as the "two beers" defense formula may drift down here at any minute, if it hasn't already done so.

Planned Careers Advised

CLEVELAND COLLEGE of Western Reserve university gives a free course in "How to Study" a week or two before its regular fall term starts. This year it introduced a free preliminary course on "Career Planning."

"The most patriotic thing a young person can do these days," said the educator who addressed the first audience, "is to plan his future thoughtfully. This nation is going to succeed as more of its people learn where they are going, why, and how to get there. Any nation succeeds as it makes use of its man power, ability, intellect and interests."

The six steps suggested for planning a career were: 1. Learn about different occupations. 2. Analyze some of them. 3. Learn all you can about yourself. 4. Relate these sets of fact to each other. 5. Choose a career on the basis of all this information. 6. Go after the job you want.

He might have added: Don't hesitate to strike out in a new field if you see one. It may take more initiative and courage to do that, but it has its rewards, especially since some of the old and more familiar occupations have been overcrowded in recent years.

UNANIMOUS AGREEMENT

War Ideas Bring Strange Line-Up

—By CARTER FIELD

CHICAGO — One really has to go back to 1916 to find a presidential campaign as curious in its line-ups as this one. This may not be so strange, because it was the war situation which made that battle so peculiar, and the war situation which creates most of the strange line-ups in this campaign.

For instance, there have been two precisely opposite criticisms of Wendell Willkie with regard to the amendment which would have postponed conscription—the one introduced by Representative Ham Fish and passed by the house of representatives.

One set of critics scream that Willkie should not have opposed the Fish amendment. They point out that he did not HAVE to say ANYTHING, and here he was taking issue with a prominent member of his own party, the man, in fact, who will be chairman of the house foreign affairs committee if the Republicans gain control of the house this election.

THE other set of critics, including the editors of Frank Knox's newspaper, the Chicago Daily News, criticise Willkie bitterly because he does not CONTROL the Republican membership of the house. Apparently these critics think that Willkie, by some magic or other, should be able to compell Mr. Fish and other Republicans in the house and senate to vote as Willkie thinks on every issue!

Incidentally, the Daily News editors and other critics of the same school of thought also blame Willkie because the candidate for the United States senate in Illinois also takes the same position on the international or war situation that Ham Fish does.

It is not made clear just HOW Willkie would go about doing this. No national convention ever was able to find the members of its party already in office. The truth is that no national convention, of any party, was ever able to bind the members of its party, elected to the house and senate AFTER the convention laid down its dictum.

But while this division in the Republican party has been attracting a great deal of criticism and comment, with Willkie being attacked by both sides, how about the Democratic party?

It just happens that the house of representatives PASSED this much discussed Fish amendment. There is no thought here of blaming President Roosevelt for that, but it could not have passed if a large number of Democratic members of the house had not voted for it. The Democratic majority in the present house is tremendous. There have been a few changes due to deaths and special elections, but the result of the 1938 election was 261 Democrats to 169 Republicans.

Now, Mr. Roosevelt, as president and as the candidate of his party for re-election, obviously should have more control of the Democrats in the house than Mr. Willkie has of the Republicans.

THIS is not an attempt to make a case politically for either side. Both parties are split on every phase of the war issue. Every individual senator and representative, and every candidate for election as such, is going to speak and vote just the way he thinks will do HIM, individually, the most good at the polls in November. If that individual candidate thinks his vote will also help the candidate of his party for president, he is usually glad of it, but that is purely incidental.

This tendency, which might be discussed learnedly as the decay of party responsibility, has been growing rapidly. It is the child of the direct primary. It is the child of the overthrow of the state bosses. But nobody is going to be able to do anything about it this year.

Health and Diet

Football Injuries Need Prompt Treatment.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHENEVER I point out that football is still a dangerous game, and that any institution that sponsors a football team should be in financial condition to safeguard its players with adequate protective devices, and with good medical supervision, I get an avalanche of letters from coaches and athletic associations protesting that football is really so harmless that it might be called sissy and no one gets seriously hurt any more.

Last year right in the midst of all this mail, I had a melancholy experience of noting that one poor young man had to have a leg amputated as a result of football injuries, so I think I will continue with the protests.

Football, to me, is a most boring and uninteresting game. It's a referee's game. The referee always gets into every scrimmage, but he gets in too late to suit my taste. Maybe if a couple of referees got injured this season the game would be improved. Other improvements I suggest are that the coaches as well as the athletic directors (and, by the way, the players) all work for love, and the proceeds of the season go to endow some needy chair in the university.

But since these dreams of mine are very, very academic and football will go on, it is well that the athletes and the parents or friends at home should be informed what is the best thing to do and to lend moral support to that end.

Knee Injuries.

Knee injuries account for a large number of serious disabilities from college or high school athletics. Football is responsible for 47 per cent of these, soccer for 12 per cent, basketball and gymnasium for 8 per cent, track for 5 per cent, wrestling for 5 per cent, baseball and lacrosse for 3 per cent each, and various events for the rest.

Dislocations of the internal cartilages of the knee are thought of first by surgeons confronted with a knee injury, but Dr. Augustin Thorndike, of Harvard, out of an enormous experience, states that internal derangements occur in only 10 per cent of cases.

Radical operative treatment of these knee injuries is being given up in favor of conservative measures. And simple immobilization in a cast, "as soon as the diagnosis is made," gives better results than bandaging and manipulation by physiotherapy. The results of conservative treatment are so good that it is recommended to be tried in all cases before operation.

Mistaken Courage.

Athletes think it is manly to refuse an anaesthetic and stand the pain of reduction of a dislocation and other injuries. In the experience of orthopedic surgeons, such procedures simply make permanent injuries, by tearing ligaments and muscles.

In the old days when anaesthetics were not so readily available the capsule of the joints was often torn so that recurrent dislocations were common, amounting to permanent disability.

Another thing that athletes and their friends should remember, emphasized by Dr. Thorndike, is that the athletic injury should not be treated once or twice and dismissed. It requires constant watching and support, when activity is resumed, because the histories show that recurrent injuries are frequent at the same site.

This Is Ohio

OHIO'S tax treatment of industry is attracting business to the Buckeye state. In a recent study by the Chamber of Commerce of a neighboring state, Ohio presented one of the most favorable tax programs of any of the 15 leading industrial states.

Another recent study, made by the Ohio department of taxation shows property taxes in Ohio cities materially lower than those of a group of industrial cities in all parts of the country.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Pay Taxes on Defense Contracts; Willkie's Big Publicity Campaign

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The army and navy have been emphasizing that they have dropped the cost-plus contracts which caused such scandalous repercussions during the last war, and are "negotiating" their contracts on the basis of cost plus a fixed fee.

However, any future congressional investigation that looks into these contracts is going to discover a very interesting fact, namely that in many cases the army and navy are paying the social security taxes, plus state and local taxes for the firms which fill national defense contracts.

In other words, one part of the United States government turns around and pays taxes to another part of the government on behalf of a private firm.

A typical "negotiated" contract (i. e., one awarded without competitive bidding) was the one given Kaufman Construction company and the J. E. Brenneman company for the building of an additional pier at the Philadelphia navy yard. The total contract figure was around $800,000, with the contractors getting a fixed fee of $36,000 for doing the job.

This contract contains a clause exempting the contractor from paying certain items, among which are the following:

"The net amount of any U. S. social security taxes and any state or local taxes, fees, or charges, which the contractors may be required, on account of this contract, to pay on or for any plant, equipment, process, organization, materials or personnel under any applicable valid law or regulations issued by competent authority."

Army and navy claim they have precedent for this in World war contracts which were reaffirmed in the National Defense Act of 1920. This law empowers the army and navy, in time of emergency or war, to make such contracts.

In fact, under the interpretation claimed by some army-navy officials the government could even pay income taxes. Whether this has been allowed in any contracts is unknown, but it is an open secret that certain contractors have asked for it.

From Missouri.

IN TWO WEEKS there will be launched one of the greatest publicity drives in U. S. political history.

From thousands of billboards, posters, window signs, movie screens, radios and sound trucks, the voters of the country will be bombarded with arguments, slogans and oratory until Nov. 5 as to why Wendell Willkie should be elected president of the United States.

The campaign will be under the auspices of the Republican national committee, but its real authors are a group of live-wire St. Louis business men headed by bustling Edgar Queeny, president of the Monsanto Chemical company, one of the biggest such firms in the country.

An original Willkie booster, Queeny has been giving a large part of his time to the job of electing him. He lunches daily with a score of politically-smart friends, and it was at these informal pow-wows that the nation-wide publicity plan evolved.

Originally Missouri was to stage the show alone, but the national committee was so impressed with its possibilities that Queeny was asked to apply it to the entire country. He responded with characteristic zip.

Through his influence, five leading advertising firms went to work with the agency that handles the Monsanto account, the Gardner Advertising company of St. Louis, and assigned two representatives to each state to explain the drive to local GOP chiefs.

One particular point to be explained was that the cost would be too large for the national committee to bear under the Hatch Act, and that the state organizations would have to carry the load. The advertising contact men have reported back that without exception the state headquarters are willing to raise and spend the necessary funds.

How It Works.

ONE of the chief aims of the drive is to hitch the election fight as closely as possible to local and personal factors.

For example, real estate men are asked to place in the windows of unrented stores and houses signs which read: "This place is empty because of the New Deal."

The radio campaign includes transcribed one-minute interviews with men and women on the street. Interviews will be secured from well-known local business men who are to say: "If I had to choose between Roosevelt and Willkie for a manager for my business, there would be no hesitation on my part whom I would pick. It would be Wendell Willkie."

All the publicity will concentrate on pounding home that the election of Willkie will mean more jobs, better business and more efficiency in government.

Note—Paul G. Clancy, editor of American Astrology Magazine, claims that according to the stars it is "practically certain" Willkie will win.

Attack on Gibraltar.

IN GAUGING the Italian squeeze against the British in Egypt and the Nazi blitzkrieg over London, it is always important to remember that there have been two schools of thought inside the German high command:

One felt that conquest of the British Isles was too tough a job immediately, that Britain's Mediterranean and Near Eastern domain should be conquered first.

The second urged an immediate attack upon the British Isles.

Now, with the trip of Von Ribbentrop to confer with Mussolini and the pilgrimage of Franco's special envoy to see Hitler, it looks as if more emphasis was going to be placed upon the Mediterranean end of the conflict.

One thing seems sure to happen—that Gibraltar, symbol of the Empire's might, will be seized by a joint German-Italian expedition. This will keep British warships from entering the Mediterranean, also supply ships.

Have Tough Army.

THE Italians face no easy job in Egypt. Despite spectacular gains, U. S. observers in Egypt report that they have not penetrated important territory and that the British have a tough army in reserve.

It is composed of 80,000 Australians and New Zealanders, among the fiercest fighters in the British army; 40,000 British regulars hardened in the Near East; about 4,000 members of the French Foreign Legion; and 50,000 Egyptians for rear-guard transport work.

Against them Marshal Graziani does not have a 2 to 1 superiority, and also has difficulty in getting his supplies across the Mediterranean from Italy because of the presence of British warships off the Libyan and Egyptian coast. That is why the Italians want the mouth of the Mediterranean closed at Gibraltar, thus bottling up the British fleet.

It cannot be ascertained for certain, but it would appear that the Italians expected Hitler to accomplish his blitzkrieg and subdue England some weeks ago, so that British resistance in Egypt would crumble.

The fact that the two dictators now seem worried enough about the situation to send Ribbentrop to Rome is one of the few encouraging reports from Europe in weeks.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Senators and congressmen are traditionally better talkers than listeners. (Drop into the galleries some day.)

There is one fellow, though, who goes up on Capitol Hill frequently, and when he does, members of congress listen!

Few men in Washington get such undivided attention—and respect—from congressional audiences as does Gen. George Catlett Marshall, chief of staff of the United States army.

A little more than a year ago, President Roosevelt gave this tall, soft-spoken, graying soldier a promotion over 33 of his senior officers.

In doing so, he elevated to the post a man to whom three chiefs of staff before him (Pershing, MacArthur and Craig) referred at various times as a great soldier.

Although not without precedent, the promotion also gave this top army post to a man who was not a graduate of West Point. But no man who ever came out of the army college was more a professional soldier.

Graduate of V. M. I.

PUCK" MARSHALL was born in Uniontown, Pa., 60 years ago. He was graduated from Virginia Military Institute with honors 21 years later. A year after that he was commissioned second lieutenant in the United States army and his varied (but consistently successful) military career was under way.

The stories about him at V. M. I. are as numerous as the anecdotes of that institution written into the recent play and movie, "Brother Rat." In his "rat," or freshman, year, he was seriously injured by a bayonet during a hazing incident. But Marshall passed it off without a word of accusation against those responsible.

Marshall was graduated without a single demerit, senior captain of his class, fifth in scholastic standing and an all-southern football tackle.

Defense Plan Praised.

THERE is another story that while serving in the Philippines, when he was a second lieutenant, he drew up field orders that were later described by his general as the best plan for the defense of the islands that he had ever seen.

Seven years ago General Marshall was only a colonel. It was during the World war that he first came to the attention of General Pershing, whose aide he later became.

When General Marshall took over the army a few months before the Nazis went rampaging in Europe, he immediately set about reorganization. Some army men wise in the ways of politics told him he was inviting the axe.

But the general went ahead, quietly but firmly brushing the objecting politicians aside. Each passing month found him another notch higher in the esteem of congress and the civilian corps working for national defense.

* * *

Makes Haste Slowly.

THE lean, wary general, with a bit of a squint in his left eye, has been an apostle of "make haste slowly" in the defense program, but he never has relaxed his insistence on its expansion.

When the vast war games were held in the South last spring (the largest such peacetime maneuver up to that time), General Marshall said: "It was a successful experiment. It showed us our shortcomings."

That," said a friend, "is General Marshall. He'd rather know an army's weakness than its strength."

A Farmer's Diary

Fences, Old and New

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I AM always partial to the old worm fence that joins the very border of our farm. The straight clean line of a nearby electric fence is not nearly so pleasant to look upon.

The ultra modern type is just a tight stretched glistening wire, with only one dimension—length. It is not built for art but for utility. It is severely plain and hatefully efficient. The team or tractor moves within inches of the line, and forms a straight and final furrow. I see no slender graceful roots protruding from the lower strata of newly turned earth. Every bit of land is used for tillage.

The outmoded old worm fence is built, perhaps, on land that was never plowed. An octagenarian told me the other day, "I helped to build that rail fence more'n 60 years ago. We cut large saplings and rolled 'em from higher ground. They're all rotted away, now, but the younger generation built on the ruins and kept to the same line." I saw him go and poke his cane through the rich dust of those early trees. A clump of field daisies grew close to his halting feet and the briery brambles were aflame with color all along. "It's be a fit and lovely resting place for anyone," he said, in a low voice. "There's something big and generous about a worm fence."

I knew just what he meant. Within the protecting shelter of those timeworn rails many quiet dwellers of the fields and woods find refuge. The sunk, the quail, the woodchuck, the weasel and the chipmunk have their winter homes there. The lone female bumblebee finds a cozy resting place beneath these crumbling tissues. Ants, wasps and crickets pass here the stormy winter days.

In autumn the fence corners are piled with windblown leaves and seeds. Some of them grow and are watered by the drifting snow that melts here later than elsewhere. Life is no more abundant anywhere, in any season, than in the corners of the old rail fence.

Its day is swiftly passing. One seldom sees a line of newly built worm fence any more. The truth is that those graceful sprawling rails are less restraining than a single thread of electrically charged wire.

But I helped build worm fences as a boy. To me there's something lovely and worth perpetuating about that line of zigzag rails.

I'LL WAIT FOR YOU + + +

By Margaret Gorman Nichols
(Copyright, 1940)

CHAPTER XXV.

Later Carol was to remember how long they were at dinner that evening and how slow their movements were — to make the time go faster so that the night would not be interminable. But in the living room again, time seemed to stop and there was nothing to say or do except to sit and wait. Nor was there anything in the past or future on which they could fasten their minds. The central thought dominated them both, thrusting out all other thoughts, leaving only Mr. Hartley's life swaying in a balance.

At ten o'clock Edwina stirred in the chair, her eyes searching Carol's face when she said, "Norman is getting the train for New York now . . ."

And all at once Norman filled Carol's mind; she could see him, a tall, loose-jointed, tweed-clad figure among lesser figures at the Newton station . . . The train rounding the bend, stopping, the porter stepping off as Norman stepped on . . . Would he glance back? What was he thinking? Oh, what was he thinking?

Edwina's dark eyes narrowed. "Carol, if you could, would you go with him? Or, if you could, would you call him back?"

She knew then by the relaxing of the taut muscles in Carol's face and that brief look of radiance that came to her eyes . . . It was as if she had thrown a lifeline or brought a light into a dark room . . .

Edwina said, "I know now and I didn't even suspect before. I wonder why I didn't. I can't imagine how it escaped me. You're as much in love with him as he is with you. I spoiled it when I told you I was going to marry him. An innocent little remark like that . . . But I explained that to you while I was explaining everything else . . ."

"I don't blame you for telling me you were going to marry Norman," Carol said when Edwina paused. "As you have just said, you were trying to make yourself believe that you were going to marry him. But I couldn't break with Alan. You can't make promises and break them, Edwina."

It was good to say at last simply and honestly, "I love Norman. Call him back or go with him? It wouldn't matter if I could be with him. But there are things other than love. Sometimes they hold you faster than love and you can't forsake them for love. And in the end love suffers most."

"You mean you'll marry Alan when this is over regardless of how it ends?" Edwina asked.

"Before it's over—if he wants it."

"Even if he goes to jail. You can't. . . ."

"You learn of the things you can do when you must do them. You can't build happiness on somebody else's unhappiness . . . Norman loves me . . ."

"The gold at the end of the rainbow . . ."

"But no one has ever reached it, Edwina. It's gold you dream about, a lovely illusion. And life is waiting and doing the things you must do . . . I wish father would telephone. The phone has never been quiet for so long. Suppose there are days of this uncertainty! You think that life hangs on big issues—war and peace and economics and politics. It doesn't. For me it's an old man's will to live . . ."

Edwina said, "Anything is possible if you love a man enough. You'll eat your pride and work and wait. But you don't love Alan Carol. Eating your pride and working and waiting will be much harder for you if you marry him before he is sent to jail. If you loved him, it would be different. But not loving him, you're just a martyr, and martyrs went out of fashion a long time ago. It's a hollow loyalty." She lowered her eyes. "And yet you can do nothing else."

Eleven o'clock . . . Twelve o'clock . . . There were no sounds along the quiet street, and in the house only the sound of the ticking of the clock. After tonight clocks would always seem ominous to Carol. She thought of her father, his nerves steady but his skill helpless. She thought too of Alan, waiting, thinking, smoking incessantly; and of Norman on a train moving northward and the taut strings of all their lives tonight. . . .

Presently Edwina said, "I think I'll go home, Carol. Sam and Mary are sleeping in the house now and they'll think I've had another accident. Try to sleep, and call me when you know anything. No matter what time it is, call me."

Getting up, she smiled. "Often, when I've been very worried, I've visualized myself ten years later. It helps. And I always visualized myself in the loveliest places with the people I've cared for most—as if I were the heroine of a movie. . . ."

* * *

Carol was curled up in the fireside chair, half of her mind asleep, when Dr. Tallant came home. Awakening very suddenly, she she sat up and saw that he looked tired and old. It was 25 minutes to 4, a minute to remember. . . ."

"Well, tell me."

And while her heart stopped, he drew up a footstool and took one of her hands.

"Poor child, It was agony, wasn't it?"

"I know you're terribly tired. I know you don't want to tell me, and that you'll try to postpone telling me. I've got to know and I hope I've prepared myself for the worst."

He smiled. "You know, Carol, Edwina Burke is perhaps the most incredible girl I've ever known. Mr. Hartley isn't going to die—not tonight, at least, and not for sometime. He's made of stern stuff and he pulled through this. Life is sweet to people who seem to have no reason to live. You realize that when you see them fight for it. It's been an altogether incredible night, with Mr. Fenton on one side and poor old Jake on the other. This Fenton chap is splendid."

She could say only, "Mr. Hartley isn't going to die . . ." and the words echoed over and over in her mind.

* * *

"And Mr. Hartley, glad to see another day, is not going to have Alan indicted. The debt will be paid and the slate will be wiped clan. I hope. Why is Edwina Burke an incredible person? Because, when she left you, she didn't go home. She went to Alan and about two hours ago she and Alan went to Mr. Hartley. That's why I didn't call you. A good deal was said and I couldn't slip away to telephone. All of us were in the room, Mr. Fenton, Mr. Hartley, Jake, Edwina and Alan. I was proud of Alan. I was proud of them all. The simple thing of telling the truth averted a catastrophe. I've seen touching scenes before but the sight of that old man and Alan. . . . Edwina Burke can cry and so can Richard Fenton. We left Alan with Mr. Hartley and Jake. We felt that our job was done. . . ."

The tears were rolling unchecked down Carol's cheeks. "Father, before Edwina left, she said something about looking ahead ten years and visualizing yourself as if you were the heroine of a movie. A way of escape—but Edwina is the heroine of today."

"She has great courage and great generosity. When I saw her and Alan come up the steps, I felt that she had driven him to come, that she had argued and pleaded, and that hers had been the better argument. We won't talk any more tonight, dear. There are some things I want to ask you about Edwina and Alan, and what Edwina told you today. But they'll wait until we've slept. The important thing is that the case is closed and we can sleep. Alan will come to see you tomorrow. There are only a few people who know about this and no one else will ever know. Your plans can still be carried out—your plans for your marriage. Now let's go up. . ."

Carol awoke with sunlight flooding her room, and slowly her thoughts came to order. The storm of yesterday was gone and this was a new day. And it was a day that would bring Alan contrite and relieved, asking to be forgiven, holding her fast to her loyalty. She thought of him now not as some one stronger than she but as some one weaker than she, who would lean upon her judgment and foresight, who would turn to her as a child turns to its mother to ask, "What shall I do now?" Reconstruction was in her hands and it would be her job to mend the broken faith, to dispel the bitter taste, to make Alan believe in himself again . . . to be a wife. The promises men and women live by, the ideals they cannot desert. . . .

In New York this morning sunlight would flood Norman's apartment when he awoke. It would flood his office later. And there was no reminder of her in apartment or office or on the crowded streets. His telephone would ring and he would hear friendly voices again, voices giving invitations. The things that he and she never said to each other, the dear, ridiculous, delightful things that enrich and remain. It was like an unfinished song or a book closed forever at its climax. It left you with incompleteness, the ragged edge of your life always to be ragged and untied and dangling loosely. And in the thousand of faces that would come and go there would be only one. . . .

Feeling the need of Edwina, Carol telephoned only to hear the old, soft voice of Mary saying, "Miss Burke went to New York this morning—early."

"To stay?" Carol asked. "Isn't she coming back?"

"No, Miss. She said she wouldn't be back."

So Edwina, her magnificent gesture behind her, had gone, too.

Carol dressed with the feeling of a nurse dressing for duty for a difficult case, though she wore a crisp cotton frock and brown and white pumps. There was efficiency in the way she brushed her hair and straightened her barely rumpled bed, so soundly had she slept. Presently Rosie's slow shuffling up the steps took her to the door.

"I didn't know you was up, Miss Carol." She had a letter in her hand and held it out to Carol. "The boy what brought it said to give it to you right away. Will you want your breakfast now?"

Alan's handwriting, a neat, legibile hand . . .

"Yes. As soon as I read this. Has my father gone out?"

"He's reading his mornin' paper and waitin' for you to come down."

Closing the door, Carol went to the window, slit the envelope and drew out the letter.

Carol, dear,

With blank white paper before me and a pen in my hand, I don't know how to say what I must say, what is very clear in my own mind. It's 5 o'clock in the morning and I've just come in from walking most of the night. The world is different just before dawn and in spite of being tired and sleepy, one can think straight.

I'm writing to you because I know if I see you that my emotions will be confused with my thoughts and that my emotions will overpower my thoughts. It's been that way since the first time I was conscious of you. And if I didn't know that what has gone before and what happened yesterday was clear to you, I'd risk it and come anyway."

Carol paused. Her eyes were misty.

Informally Speaking...

Sept 23, 1940

Lucy, dear:

I'M NOT sure that it's time for Indian summer yet, but whatever this weather is that we're having now it's wonderful, isn't it? If, like spring fever, there's such a thing as fall fever, I'm afraid I have it, because I'd like to spend every day outdoors Folks are getting settled for the winter, though, because news of vacationers has dwindled and most all the collegians are already busy attending classes at their various schools.

Marianne

* * * * *

But nevertheless, I do have some news for you today, Lucy and when you hear part of it, I'm sure you'll want to hustle right over for a visit. . . . You guessed it—some of your old friends are here this week . . . Mr and Mrs. Frank Fox and their baby are here from Milford, Conn; and they're stopping with Mrs Fox's parents, Mr and Mrs. John Angle . . . You probably remember Mrs. Fox, better as Betty Angle.

* * * * *

WE'RE all mighty proud of Vangelene Cook, and happy for her too, but it was with reluctance that we bid her goodbye when she set out for Washington, D. C. the other day. . . . We hate to lose her as a resident of these parts, but she has gone there for a wonderful position, indeed. . . . She's going to teach personnel management and merchandizing at the new Calvin Coolidge High school . . . It's a new school in the capital, and this will be the first time a course like Vanie is teaching has ever been offered. . . . A graduate of Denison university, Vanie attended Northwestern university during the summer between semesters teaching down in Lucas, and then last year she attended New York university, receiving her Master's degree in June. . . . She's been employed in Cleveland since then, and is the daughter of Atty. and Mrs. Van C. Cook.

* * * * *

Mrs. Charles Hoffman really has the right idea when it comes to birthday parties, because instead of letting her guests surprise her, she surprises them. . . . You see, Saturday was her birthday, and so when she invited her friends to come to her house for a party, she told them to bring along their own sandwiches, cup, glass and other table service. . . . Of course Mrs. Hoffman's guests surprised her with a handkerchief shower and some other personal gifts—but then she turned the tables on them by taking them to the Mansfield-Leland hotel for dinner (so that they really didn't need all that table paraphernalia they'd carried along) . . . There they found their places by identifying their birth dates on the place cards, and each guest received a gift from the hostess.

* * * * *

AND speaking of parties, the Health department gave a farewell party for Dr. Walter L Merz, assistant health commissioner here for the past two years, and his wife at the Susie Janis home on Park avenue west road this past week-end . . . The group presented Dr. Merz with a gift of luggage in honor of the occasion, as his resignation at the department became effective today, and he and his wife are moving to Chesaning Mich., where he will engage in private practice.

* * * * *

FROM now on when you speak of round-up time and blooming sage brush to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beidelschies and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Swigart, they'll be able to tell you all about it, as they've just come back from a 15-day trip to the Rocky mountains. . . . They spent most of their time on the cattle ranch of Mrs. Beidelschies' aunt, Mrs Carrie Stephens, which is near Gypsum, Colo.—about 200 miles west of Denver . . . Since it was round-up time, the men rode in it and had the time of their lives. . . . Before returning east, the party visited in Denver and Colorado Springs.

* * * * *

Marjorie Brandon of Lorain was a week-end guest at the home of Marie Hoover. . . . The girls were Pi Kappa Sigma sorority sisters while attending Kent State university. . . . Oh yes, and I mustn't forget to tell you that Helen Bayer, daughter of Atty. Joseph Bayer, left for Delaware yesterday to resume her studies as a junior at Ohio Wesleyan university. . . . James Stough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stough, has gone to Angola, Ind. to study aeronautical-engineering at Tri State college, where he will be a freshman.

* * * * *

Guess that's all the news for you now, Lucy. . . . More next week.

Lovingly

Marianne

It's Fun To Be Intelligent

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Sometimes I've wondered if writers to this column haven't been bored at the way I've preached adult education in and out of season as a means to a fuller life and also for the purpose of getting more dollar bills in the pay envelope.

Here's my chance to get back at correspondents who may have felt I've urged adult education too constantly. From the publication "School and Society" we have an interesting account of how the residents of San Jose Cal., are absorbing culture and fun simultaneously. In fact, their slogan is "It's fun to be intelligent." And I might add there's no better recipe for making marriage happy and keeping it off the rocks than for husbands and wives to find an intellectual interest in common.

Can you imagine a better way of being happy though married? Instead of yawning over the dinner table, complaining about things and telling how you think you caught your cold, and that Mrs. Jones is going to have a new baby, such a trip as these San Jose people took is vital, interesting and will hold heartwarming memories for the future.

There were 29 members of the history class which fared forth in a bus to cover 500 miles and study California history. Their ages ranged from twenty-two to fifty-five. There were young married people and even a grandmother among them. It proved to be a delightful adventure. They found history on the campsites of early explorers, in old Spanish Missions, in gold-rush towns, deep in Death Valley and high in the snows of the Sierras.

They went to Boulder Dam, where the engineers told them something about irrigation and flood control. Park rangers discussed soils and plants. They picked up a little geology, geography and botany. Again can you imagine a better way of how to be happy though married, sharing a delightful adventure like this?

The Adult Education department of the San Jose public schools launched the pleasant adventure, furnishing the class with lively talks.

Last year, 7,100 grown-ups, one out of every six in town, took at least one course. Some were members of California's first families, some, timid immigrants. It cost the state about $7 a student, while the city supplies quarters.

People of thirty foreign nationalities who work in orchards, canneries and other local industries also received valuable educational help from the same source. This starts with lessons in English. The school goes to the foreigner rather than the foreigner to the school. There are two-hour English classes which meet twice weekly in especially chosen neighborhoods.

Last year 600 aliens became American citizens after schooling in the adult center. Can you think of a better way to discourage Communism, Fascism, Bolshevism and all the other isms gnawing at our American vitals? These aliens learn what the United States is actually doing for them in making them citizens.

But to hark back to the bus trip, which numbered young married people who cannot afford expensive outings, and yet enjoyed a regular tour from the Sierras to Death Valley, why can't people in other states organize, charter a bus, and, to use the San Jose slogan, discover "It's fun to be intelligent."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

For a long second or two she was silent, I guessed from sheer inability to speak. Then she spoke, quaveringly, but the jubilance threading the tremor.

"If you're sure it won't upset your father's plans, I'd be glad to have him help me," she said.

"If it does," I said with conviction. "Dicky won't be able to come up. But I'm fairly sure Harry will take over for him for that short time. I'll find out at once."

But outside the door my footsteps lagged for a second or two until I could pull myself together. Not that I objected to Dicky's arms holding that pain-wracked and emaciated figure—I acquitted myself of that meanness. But I had a lively dread of the objections to my plan which he undoubtedly would voice as soon as I should broach it.

Another and graver consideration made me hesitate. This request I was planning to make to Dicky was a distinct breach of my father's discipline. When he gives an order he expects it to be obeyed meticulously, and his injunctions for haste in the boarding up of the windows, the task which Dicky and Harry were supervising, had been specific — and insistent.

For a second or two I weighed the idea of going to my father and asking his permission for Dicky's release for the short time necessary to carry Edith to the downstairs study. Then I remembered that he was resting as he had promised Miss Whitlock. He might even be asleep. Unthinkable to disturb him for so trivial a pretext.

Surely, I decided, five minutes lopped off Dicky's schedule would not matter materially. And I knew that if he did not feel he ought to leave his post in Harry's care for even that short period, no argument of mine, no consideration of Edith's need, would sway him.

With the feeling that I was burning my bridges behind me, I went downstairs, not to go outdoors—my father's orders were strict upon that point. He was keeping up all inside, forbidding anyone to go outside the door But his foresight had caused the installation of a miniature telephone between the hall and the small, shrubbery-hidden shack where the guards rested between shifts, and I went directly to it.

"This is Mr. Graham." I said to the guard who answered my ring.

"Yes, Mrs. Graham," he answered promptly. "What can I do for you?"

"Will you please ask Mr. Graham to come to the front veranda door?" I asked.

"Right away," the guard answered, and I reached the front veranda door—which I purposely had chosen because it was farthest from the kitchen and Katie's inquisitive ears—only a split second before Dicky appeared.

There was just the suspicion of a frown touching his eyebrows, and his whole attitude was that of unspoken disapproval of my summons of him. My heart went to my shoe soles even before he spoke.

"Make it snappy, old dear!" he said.

I swallowed hard, while the remembrance of Edith's plight steeled my determination.

"I have to ask you this, Dicky," I said earnestly. "Please believe I wouldn't call you away from anything save a question almost of life or death."

Dicky bent suddenly quizzical eyes upon my face.

"Whose death?" he queried. "Edie's? Wrong number, darling, and you're on the wrong track. That baby won't die. Sorry, but I've got to get back."

Beware of Child's Tales

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

While there are some horrible teachers, most are of very high grade. My own children were fortunate to have many excellent teachers in the public schools, from the kindergarten through senior high school.

During the first few weeks of school we parents can do much to further or hinder the success of our child at school and the success of his teacher. This child, especially in the lower grades, will talk freely of her, often admiringly, sometimes critically. Also he will make frequent comments about his observations and experiences at school.

Listen and Learn.

Naturally we may learn a great deal as we listen. But we need to remember that the child is talking in terms of his limited experience and wisdom; also in terms of his childish prejudices. Without meaning to misrepresent or deceive he may render very inaccurate accounts of his teacher and school.

Being human, we parents are inclined not to take into account the child's limitations. We are impulsive, prone to pass judgment right away, and with clearly incomplete evidence at hand. Accordingly, we easily might respond to his reports in such a way as to make him suppose his is a very poor teacher and school. In case this child reports what he considers unfair treatment of himself by the teacher and school, a mere word, gesture, or mere look from the parent might magnify the unfairness to large proportions in the child's mind.

Just consider what might happen with more unfavorable reports by the child from day to day embellished with his imagination. Won't he then grow less respectful toward the teacher, antagonistic, even abusive of her? And won't the teacher's attitude rebound accordingly? How can your child or mine grow best in citizenship at school when he thinks we consider his teacher unfit to teach him, since we condemn and criticize her in his presence—and solely on the basis of what he has reported concerning her?

Be Discreet.

My fellow parent: When your child reports anything about his teacher or school which you disapprove, let him talk so long as he is not discourteous. Listen thoughtfully but express no disapproval of the teacher or school then. There will be instances, indeed when you can and should set the child straight right then and there. But if you believe some matters at school deserve your attention, wait a day or so until you have regained complete self-mastery, praying for poise in the meanwhile. Then without the child's knowing it beforehand go to the school to ascertain the facts, not to condemn and abuse.

Prevent Wrinkles Sensibly

By MME. QUI VIVE

Don't you sometimes wonder why it is that some women in their early forties have wrinkles while others are blessed with smooth, unlined faces when they are sixty? A number of causes contribute to the arrival of facial ditches. If a woman is blessed with health and vitality, has due regard for nutrition, gets restful sleep, has a cheerful disposition and courage to face life's disappointments and anxieties, she has a good chance to lick old Pop Time at his own game. Certain cosmetic treatments are helpful, but the main thing is keeping fit, mentally, physically and emotionally.

The tissues of the facial structure are like other tissues of the body — if they do not receive proper nourishment, they weaken and lose elasticity. Lines form. A woman may be a hearty eater, love the good things of the table, and still not stow away food elements that are necessary for the well being of the facial upholstery. Finicky eaters suffer from wrinkles, as they are often victims of moulting tresses.

Loss of sleep is a factor. During sleep, rebuilding goes on. Stay awake and worry for a time and you'll see those crepe-like lines appearing, that is if you have left the fortieth milestone behind you. Late hours, overwork, excitement, mental stress all take a toll of good looks.

Avoid tension as much as you can. Don't get into a fret or a stew if you can help it. If you feel like fighting somebody, go to your room, lie down, close your eyes and tell yourself to be calm. The best slogan for emotional control is "Don't start anything." And if somebody else in the family starts something, run out on them. There are fights in the best of families, but they never get anybody anything but heart sickness and tears.

Many wrinkles, unfortunately, are self-inflicted. Frowning and squinting can be avoided, they are line diggers of the first water.

Every woman, in spare moments, should give her facial muscles a rest. Let them relax —completely, fully. Lie down, place a small pillow under the back of your neck, have the lips slightly parted.

Keep the facial coating well lubricated. Oil enters the skin along the shafts of tiny downy hairs that are in every pore. They seep into the sebaceous glands, the purpose of which is to supply a lubricant to the skin so it will not dry or crack. The free use of oily cosmetics may ward off wrinkles and, if wrinkles are present, it will condition the tissues so they can't dig in deeper.

Apply a heavy cream with gentle upward strokes. Tap it in, using the fingers as if they were little hammers. Follow the treatment with an ice friction. Let the cream remain on overnight; it takes from four to six hours for it to reach its greatest depth in the tissues.

WASHING BLACK GLOVES.

Don't be afraid to wash your black leather gloves . . . provided they're of good American-tanned doeskin, mocha, capeskin, suede or pigskin. BUT . . . don't let them wait for weeks, getting more and more soiled. Wash them as often as you'd wash lighter colors, because black gloves, even though they don't show it, collect just as much soil as any others, and like others, the less soiled you let them get the easier they'll wash.

"The Authority on Authorities"

HOW MANY ARE OUT?

THE QUESTION of how to play a combination of cards, in order to take the maximum number of tricks with it, depends not only upon the height of the missing ones in the suit, which are held by the opponents, but also upon the number of them. Still another factor is the information given by bids or plays of the opponents, which may furnish indications regarding the probable location of the hidden cards.

How these factors operate is emphasized by a combination like that below, the numbered hands being different dummies opposite the same declarer's spade combination, granting plenty of side entries into both hands.

Declarer's Holding
♠ A Q 10 6 2

Dummy's Holdings

1. ♠ 9 8 7 5 4 3	4. ♠ 9 8 7
2. ♠ 9 8 7 4 3	5. ♠ 9 8
3. ♠ 9 8 7 4	6. ♠ 9

If the dummy had seven cards opposite that declarer's holding, there would be no problem at all. Play of the A on the first round would be bound to drop the K. But when dummy has six, the opponents hold the K and J. Correct plan prescribes lead of any card from dummy. Of course, if the first opponent plays the K or discards, there is no problem. If he plays the J, declarer's best play is the A.

The mathematics of that may be rationalized thus: After the first opponent played, the other has one more card left than he; if this occurs on the fourth trick, the last opponent has ten cards, any one of which may be the K, while the other has nine, so that the odds favor the drop play rather than the finesse by 10 to 9 at that stage, and by more if it comes later in the hand.

When, however, the dummy has only five cards, opponents hold three; after the first one plays the 5, both the K and J are out. If the third man holds both, nothing will stop the K, so let's forget that lineup. The other three possible lineups are with both held by the first man, only the K still held by him and only the small card. With the first of these, the finesse of the 10 on the first round wins; with the second, the finesse of the Q; with the third, play of the A wins. So the finesse is exactly 2 to 1 favored over the play of the A, and the Q finesse is sounder than that of the 10 because bunching of all three missing cards in one hand occurs less frequently than a 2-1 split. That play should be followed ordinarily by the A next.

When dummy has four cards, and four are out, again the most likely play is the Q finesse, to be followed by the A, unless something drops on the first trick. When five are out, finesse the 10 first, to be followed by a Q finesse, and likewise when six are out. When seven are out, and you can finesse only once, the Q finesse is best.

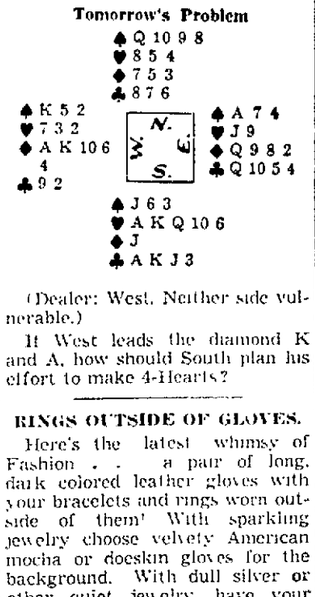
Tomorrow's Problem.

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

If West leads the diamond K and A, how should South plan his effort to make 4-Hearts?

RINGS OUTSIDE OF GLOVES.

Here's the latest whimsy of Fashion . . . a pair of long, dark colored leather gloves with your bracelets and rings worn outside of them! With sparkling jewelry choose velvety American mocha or doeskin gloves for the background. With dull silver or other quiet jewelry, have your gloves of that smart glace finished American leather . . . capeskin. And mousquetaire style gloves are a good idea for this since they fit the arm more snugly than slip-ons.

HOROSCOPE

Monday, Sept. 23.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly lively and pleasant day, with all things, business and private, moving at swift tempo. All of a cultural and intellectual nature is encouraged, with the aims and aspirations of the young and romantic flourishing. Pleasure, courtship, perhaps marriage, are among the predictions.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a lively, pleasant and productive year, in business, speculation, writings, art—any line of creative work. In private life—much pleasant experience, courtship and for the eligible, marriage. But shun extravagance and impetuosities.

A child born on this day may be exceedingly versatile of almost any creative or cultural work.

GLOVES MATCH HATS.

When you buy that new Fall hat, as you'll soon be doing, plan for a pair of gloves to match either the hat itself or the trimming on it. And that will be easy to do because American leather glove makers have carefully matched some of their colors to some of the millinery colors, anticipating that you'd like the effect of these two color mates.

AVIATION NEWS—

TWO MORE FROM DISTRICT SPORT 'WINGS' TODAY

Pass Private License Exams Sunday as Part of CPT Course at Airport.

Two more Mansfield district youths were sporting their wings today. They successfully passed their flight examinations for private pilot's licenses at the municipal airport yesterday.

They are Charles Hench of Shelby and George Case of Galion. Both were students in the civilian pilot training class. They were the fifth and sixth of the original 10 to become pilots. James R. Harrington, the government instructor here said the other four will probably take their examinations within the next two weeks.

First of the five alternates who began their flight instruction two months ago made his first solo trip aloft yesterday morning. Robert Stewart, Mansfield, was the student. The other four are expected to make their solo flights sometime this week.

In addition, Nevan Klotz of Barberton flew here yesterday to take his private pilot exam. He was flight-tested by Harrington and will receive his rating from the government shortly.

Meanwhile 15 students in the CAA's college training program at Asland were winding up their instruction under Operator Walter Shuey and all are expected to be ready for their flight tests next week.

Harrington said he would probably go to Ashland about Oct. 1 to take the first of the students aloft for earial examinations. Included in the class is one Mansfielder, LeRoy Wittemire.

With ground school instruction concluded here and the Ashland college course nearing completion, it is expected that similar classes will be inaugurated by the government at both Mansfield and Ashland to keep its pilot training program moving in the central Ohio district.

National Aeronautical association officials, sponsoring the program here, believe that another ground class will be statred in the next 30 days and view with some probability the establishment of an advanced training course for the numerous students who are graduating from the primary training classes.

It is also expected that actual flight training for 15 students—those to receive scholarships from their ground school study will be started shortly after Oct. 1.

The examination papers are in Washington and as soon as results of the tests are known, the Richland chapter of the NAA plans to hold a dinner honoring the lucky 15, including one girl.

Forty-two students including three girls took the examinations. They represented an original class of 50 Richland county youngsters who tackled the stiff ground school course, completing three months' instruction in five weeks.

Dr. Burr Hathaway's plane, the one he set down in a field north of Mansfield last week when the motor stalled, is being repaired. Paul Gimbel, chief mechanic at the port has it all torn down and it will be given a minute examination before being reassembled.

Harrington said the ship which suffered a damaged landing gear will be thoroughly inspected by CAA officials before it will be allowed to be taken aloft.

He said inspection showed the ship has suffered no extensive structural damage. It will be ready for flying in another two or three weeks.

She's Happiest Mother

"The happiest day of my life!" So exclaimed Countess De Tristan, (top) member of a wealthy California family, on learning that her son, Marc, 3, had been rescued from his abductor in a lonely section of California. Republican Vets Open Series Of Rallies Saturday

The Richland County unit of the War Veterans' Republican club will hold the first of a series of campaign rallie. for the Republican candidates Saturday afternoon and evening at R. B. Gardner's farm three miles northeast of Mansfield.

It is expected that Judge Charles W. Montgomery of Newark will be the principal speaker. Judge Montgomery is a member of the Fifth district appeals court.

Veterans from Richland, Ashland, Knox, Licking, and Coshocton counties, members of the Richland county Republican executive and central committees, and the Willkie-Bricker-Burton club have been invited to attend the session.

James R. Rowe, secretary of the Veterans' club, said the organization will set up campaign headquarters Sept. 30, probably in the Warner building in Mansfield.

The club will re-organize its ward and precinct groups to further the campaign of the Republican ticket in the city and county, Rowe said.

Eternal Triangle.

The eternal triangle forms the basic theme for the drama "Safari," co-starring Douglas Fairbanks, jr. and Madeleine Carroll showing through Tuesday at the Ritz. The story tells of a wealthy baron who takes Miss Carroll and another young woman to Africa as guests on his yacht. He is going on safari and had hired Douglas Fairbanks, jr. to head the expedition. The co-feature is the popular drama "Susan and God," starring Joan Crawford and Fredric March.

Enoch Arden Theme.

"My Favorite Wife" features a stream-lined twist to the Enoch Arden story, with a wife returning after a seven-year absence to find that she has been declared legally dead and that her husband has just remarried. Irene Dunne portrays the missing wife; Gail Patrick, the bride, and Cary Grant is the husband. This film along with "Bad Boy" is showing at the Park.
